WORLD OF POLITICS.

Butler Addresses Large Audiences in the West.

HARD AT WORK IN INDIANA

The New York "Herald" on the Colored Vote—Interesting Political Points—Proceedings of State Conventions, Etc.

[illegible], Mich, Sept 3—General Butler [illegible] of the largest meetings ever [illegible] this afternoon. It is estimated that [illegible] people were present. He said [illegible] ought to stand together and [illegible] parties. The democrats were the party of the time of Jefferson and Jackson [illegible] the monopoly of the United States [illegible] were alive to-day Butler [illegible] but he didn't want to vote for his old [illegible] with southerners [illegible] the political history of a quarter of a [illegible] southern democrats held to the [illegible] slavery embedded in it. When noble [illegible] arose among the people against [illegible] parties tried to put them down [illegible] Fremont president but he was counted [illegible]. The country had refused to [illegible] in power since they went it to re[illegible] republicans were kept prince [illegible] for [illegible]. He could not say much [illegible] but it was not thoroughly done. He [illegible] republicans because they had not made [illegible] master of himself. He broke with the [illegible] because they were not willing to [illegible] question once for all by the principle [illegible] the tariff in favor of the working [illegible] a revenue from luxuries. The [illegible] committees at Chicago spent thirty six [illegible] a tariff plank nearly like that of the [illegible] and yet not be republican so as to keep [illegible]. The tariff was to keep the Amer[illegible] for ourselves. Canada wants to [illegible] lumber. If the tariff is taken off it would [illegible] of your market and half the mills [illegible] lumber and Michigan turn [illegible] suspend or all work at half wages.

ABOUT BUNTING

[illegible] talk about Butler being a manufac[illegible]. When the war broke out no bunt[illegible] in this country, and British manufac[illegible] the price on the American government [illegible]. Now it is only $15 or $[illegible], and they [illegible]. About the close of the war the sec[illegible] asked Butler if he could make as [illegible] Lowell as the government was using [illegible] laid before some young men at Low[illegible] the manufacture but didn't [illegible] them went to an English factory and [illegible]. Then a factory at Lowell was [illegible] bunting for the army and navy [illegible] small business but the wife of one of [illegible] succeeded in getting varieties [illegible] dress goods. The trade grew [illegible] started. Being woolen goods they [illegible] general tariff. This was not added [illegible] for competition between American [illegible] the price two-thirds besides giving [illegible] hundreds of men and furnishing a [illegible] American flag. A little encourage[illegible] a new industry [illegible] party has failed to the little tith[illegible] disputes between capital and labor [illegible] has courts but that. In the [illegible] the lack of such provisions tends to [illegible] trouble by the shotgun. Railroads are [illegible] interest on bonds for more than they [illegible] dividends on stock on top of that [illegible] come together and have a commis[illegible] stock at the figure where it should [illegible] will continue to be bound to the [illegible] unite to burst their chains.

BUTLER SPEAKS AT CHICAGO

[illegible] Sept 3—General Butler arrived here this [illegible] Michigan. Owing to the fact that [illegible] at an unexpected hour the committee [illegible] was not at the depot. He pro[illegible] and spent the time till evening [illegible] with his supporters. On the question of fusion with democrats on an [illegible] in Illinois the result is not known [illegible] people gathered in Battery D armory [illegible] for the purpose of listening to an ad[illegible] General Butler. He appeared shortly [illegible] and was received with cheers [illegible] most of the people both [illegible] republican and democratic parties [illegible] and there were bad men in both. The [illegible] in choosing twelve apostles [illegible] a devil and was a thief. The republican party of late had shown [illegible] for the number of corrupt men [illegible] democratic and greenback parties within [illegible] five years had had no chance to be [illegible] therefore it could not be known [illegible] were corrupt. The republican party [illegible] succeed in saving the Union and [illegible] slavery but this was a past record [illegible] a tombstone. The democratic party [illegible] record under Jackson and if Jack[illegible] to-day he would vote for him with all [illegible]

WORKINGMAN'S OPPORTUNITY

[illegible] something like 8,000,000 voters [illegible] the coming election it would be [illegible] workingmen of the nation numbered [illegible] was to prevent them from choosing [illegible] if they voted with either of the old [illegible] divided their votes between them the [illegible] votes would be thrown away. The [illegible] trying to keep the other parties from [illegible] their scramble for office. If his [illegible] vote for him their votes would not be [illegible] even if they did not succeed in elect[illegible]. Men were in the habit of com[illegible] asking him if he really expected to [illegible] reply was that he did not care. He [illegible] to the democratic convention to ask [illegible] it was going to do for the laboring [illegible] not promise to do anything, and he [illegible] wanted the workingmen to vote [illegible] whether their candidate was [illegible]. If they did this they would not [illegible] old parties at their next conventions [illegible] give the workingman. They would [illegible] what he wanted.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

[illegible] then proceeded to speak of the de[illegible] had been made at the democratic con[illegible] of labor in a vein similar to that [illegible] in former speeches and followed [illegible] references to the action of the tariff [illegible] importation of labor under contract [illegible] proceeded to speak of the labor agita[illegible] begun by him many years ago [illegible] in electing nine men to the legisla[illegible] thought they could do any[illegible] thought they were throwing [illegible] votes but these nine men [illegible] legislation of the state and re[illegible] of labor to the basis which exists [illegible] of the laboring men of the little [illegible] made possible the election of the [illegible]. He would have it a criminal [illegible] to make men work more than [illegible] hours as a day's labor [illegible] Congress passed a law making [illegible] day's labor for government employes [illegible] the question whether a [illegible] much in eight hours as he could in [illegible] day to this he said the republican [illegible] sullenness or stamina enough.

[illegible]

[illegible] his hearers not to get up expensive [illegible]. The workingman did not [illegible]. He hoped they would [illegible] uniform as anybody's [illegible] themselves. No hon[illegible] guards. He was at the head of [illegible] and would see to how its interests [illegible]. It had been charged that he [illegible] that he might be somebody else's [illegible] treasury. What did he want of a [illegible]. He had secretaries of his own, some [illegible] filling cabinet positions. In this [illegible] simply and only the good of the [illegible] excused himself from speaking [illegible] his voice had been somewhat im[illegible] speaking and he had further on.

HENDRICKS MAKES A SPEECH.

The Great Fraud and Appeals to the Irish Voters

[illegible] Sept 3—Ex Governor Hendricks [illegible] audience of 2000 persons for an hour [illegible] at Connersville to-day at the fair [illegible]. The reception was cordial [illegible] substantially the same [illegible] at Indianapolis last Saturday [illegible] follows: You know I have [illegible] a candidate [Cries of and [illegible] once or twice. I have been [illegible] more frequently than [illegible] I was elected governor I did not [illegible] candidate when I was nominated for [illegible] before I did not want to be a candi[illegible] unnecessary to talk about that now [illegible] I did not expect to be a candidate [illegible]. But we wanted you. I tell [illegible] I want your votes the worst [Laughter and applause and [illegible] will get them. That is [illegible] some people have said a candidate [illegible] ought not to go about making [illegible]. I speak to men having decided [illegible] want them to say when they elect [illegible] that which excluded me from the [illegible] was elected before was an infamous [illegible] believe it now [Applause [illegible] know it. I have not found one [illegible] that was not perfectly satisfied on [illegible] and they are becoming rapidly satisfied [illegible] that I am going to be rewarded.

A SPECIAL TO IRISHMEN

[illegible] that in New York the Irish people [illegible] of the democrats and that the labor [illegible] going for Cleveland and all that. It [illegible] wish to disturb your minds at all but that [illegible] natural democrats [Great applause [illegible] speaking of that in fun [illegible] in earnest. He [illegible] the breath of an any one's desire [illegible] his own country and when [illegible] sympathies are for popular gov[illegible] and economical [illegible] has been a [illegible] when the [illegible] vindicated [illegible] not stand up [illegible] rights [illegible] the democrat stand together [illegible] my own district at one [illegible]. I would not be a know-nothing. If I [illegible] have been a know[illegible] carry know-nothing votes, [illegible] well enough, but I would have felt [illegible] to mean all the [illegible] that I could not stand it [Ap[illegible] It was impossible. Now my [illegible] not necessary to appeal to you [illegible] have known me more or less for [illegible]. If I am worthy of the high [illegible] has nominated me for [illegible] you for your support [illegible] great honor to the [illegible] nominated me such

[illegible] very [illegible] received. I was an hon[illegible] I felt I was [illegible] the people of my own state and when I [illegible] placed in nomination [illegible] happened to be at a time when I did not know what was going on in the convention and I [illegible] drank [illegible] their [Laughter] Then I could not refuse and I did not desire to refuse it but I [illegible] before you. I take off my hat and ask of [illegible] ladies and gentlemen their support [Applause]

THE COLORED VOTE

The New York Herald Canvasses its Strength in the Coming Election

NEW YORK, Sept 3—[Special]—The Herald has the following: Either the labor vote has been one of the great political factors in turning elections one way or the other. The colored vote has never yet in the north assumed a particularly important position in the minds of political managers. But for some time the impression has gradually been growing that the colored voters were preparing to assert themselves more prominently than in the past. Frequent expressions by their orators and writers has shown that the negroes are careful to observe a clannish feeling against other races and it is believed that the republican managers by quietly stirring up this sentiment can succeed in holding to themselves the colored vote. At the present time when white labor has held out the hand of fellowship to the colored men and when if ever negro voters have an opportunity to win much honest applause by allowing the color line to lose its former harsh intensity it becomes interesting to know how they feel and how they will cast their votes which they now believe to be so important.

COLORED MEN INTERVIEWED

Then follow interviews with colored men as follows. Rev Derrick said: I have just returned from a little jaunt which took me as far as Bar Harbor where I have had the pleasure of an interview with Brother Blaine. I also saw some of the most eminent colored gentlemen of Massachusetts and learned from them how the colored vote of Butler's own state would go. I can assure you sir that the people of my race are pretty solid for the republican ticket. We cannot go back on the party which brought us up. The democratic party has not asked us to come into it. It has opened its arms widely to the laboring man with white skin but it has made no advances to him with the dark one. What precious fools we would be under the circumstances if we went where we were not wanted. No sir we are children of the republican party and we propose to stick by our mother for the present, at least.

Colonel Freeman editor of the Progressive American said: It is certain that the majority of the colored vote is solid for Blaine and Logan. The democratic party don't do anything for us. True its platform and papers speak well of the colored brother but we work in the kitchen and cornfield. This talk of affiliation with white trades unions is all nonsense. You all know as well as I do, that these men don't want us. You might be willing to work alongside of a man with a dark skin, but ignorant workingmen are not willing to do anything of the kind.

Other interviews are given to the same effect all going to prove that as negroes propose to [illegible] and to [illegible] the whites should do the same.

POLITICAL POINTS

TILDEN RECEIVES THE CHICAGO RESOLUTIONS

NEW YORK, Sept 3. The steam yacht Viking belonging to Samuel J Tilden steamed down from Yonkers to the foot of West Twenty third street at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in charge of George W Smith Tilden's private secretary. Shortly afterwards the committee appointed by the national democratic convention at Chicago to present the address of regret that Tilden felt it necessary to decline the presidency went on board. The committee and party including Joseph Pulitzer editor of the World after a pleasant sail up the river during which a handsome collation was served, reached Yonkers.

Mr Henry of Mississippi chairman of the committee, and Governor Abbott of New Jersey were selected to present the resolutions. They were driven to Graystone. There they were received in person by Tilden who welcomed them. Tilden has been indisposed lately and his physician advised against any formal reception at this time. The chairman of the committee Mr Henry in his address to Tilden said: The national democratic convention accepted your declination and withdrawal from public life with reluctance and knew that the influence of your example as public official would not be lost, that that example was and will ever continue to largely influence political parties in this country for good. They have learned from it that with the [illegible] executive power [illegible] by firmness and integrity it is possible to secure what the people of the United States have practically lost, honest and cheap administration of public affairs. But it will be no affront to you sir when we add that coupled with this purpose to do your honor is another [illegible] less fixed determination of the democratic party to compel [illegible] now and in the coming years and at all along its march and line of battle the deliberate assault of the republican party upon constitutional liberty in the nullification of your election.

POLITICAL POINTS FROM VARIOUS NEWSPAPERS

NEW YORK, Sept 3—The Herald puts in a dozen different places this morning the following: We understand that the colored vote of New York is solid for Blaine with a few disaffected men for Butler.

All democratic papers pretend to be elated this morning with what they call the shrinkage in the republican majority in Vermont.

The Tribune reviewing republican prospects in this state says they are far better than at this time in 1880. Details of organization have been carefully perfected not so much by the state committee as by voters themselves. Over 900 Blaine and Logan clubs have been formed. The demand for speakers is unusually large and arrangements have been made for speeches from United States Senators Sherman of Ohio, Hale and Frye of Maine, Hawley of Connecticut, Allison of Iowa, Miller and Lapham of New York, Harrison of Indiana and Hoar of Massachusetts, Postmaster General Gresham, Judge Folger, Martin I Townsend, Stephen A Douglas, Chauncey M Depew, Congressmen Boutelle and Dingley, Seth L Milliken of Maine and about seventy five other prominent speakers including the best orators in the Irish American party.

The Times Albany special says: Within a few days Conkling is reported to have substantially said to a personal friend: If Cleveland was a good enough man for Blaine's friends to make governor of New York perhaps some republicans may think he is a good man for president.

THE ELECTION IN VERMONT

NEW YORK, Sept 3—Warren Gibbs chairman of the Vermont republican committee telegraphs to an evening paper as follows: Returns do not indicate that our majority will be less than 21,000.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt, Sept 3—Thirty additional towns heard from to-day added to the vote of towns heard from last night give in 144 townships heard from, Pingree 29,113, Reddington 14,593, Soule 418, independent and scattering 311. The same towns gave Farnham, rep, in 1880 31,206, Phelps dem 15,44[illegible], greenback [illegible].

ST ALBANS, Vt, Sept 3—The bolt in this county resulted in the election of the democratic ticket by majorities ranging from 1 to 400. This county on the state ticket gives Pingree rep 3338, Redington (dem) 1732 and Soule 142, showing a republican gain of [illegible] votes over all as compared with 1880. Stewart for congress has a majority over Simmons and Elder of 180. Only two democratic representatives were elected in the county, a loss of three. The result has no political significance whatever, being simply the outcome of feeling growing out of the financial troubles of this town.

BURLINGTON, Vt, Sept 3—The Free Press has returns from 204 of 240 towns in the state. These give Pingree (republican) 33,618, Reddington (democrat) 18,4[illegible], greenback independent and scattering 36[illegible]. Pingree's majority over Redington [illegible]. Pingree's majority over all 20,1[illegible]. The remaining towns will increase Pingree's majority over all to about 22,500. Two hundred and [illegible] towns four years ago gave the republicans 41,[illegible] and the democrats 20,207. The republican vote has therefore fallen off 12 per cent and the democratic 10 per cent. The average republican majority in the last four elections was 20,000.

ADDITIONAL ELECTION RETURNS

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Sept 3—Returns from 214 towns give Pingree (republican) for governor 24,662, Redington (democrat), 11,9[illegible], Soule (greenback) 254, Stone (independent) and scattering, 165, giving Pingree a majority over all of 12,2[illegible]. The same towns in 1880 gave Farnham republican 27,40[illegible], Phelps democratic 12,5[illegible]. This shows a falling off in the republican vote from 1880 of [illegible]743 and in the democratic vote of the same year of 680. For congress in the First district Stewart republican, has 7,37[illegible], Simmons, democratic 251[illegible], Kidder greenbacker and scattering 113. Stewart's majority is 46[illegible]. In the Second district Grout republican has 12,121, Goddard, democrat 5314, Cummings greenbacker and scattering, 113. Grout's majority 67[illegible]. Towns not heard from gave in 1880 for Farnham, [illegible], for Phelps 12,650, making Farnham's majority 14[illegible]. At this rate the republican majority for governor will be about 20,000. The legislature stands [illegible] republicans, 14 democrats, 1 greenbacker and 1 independent.

THESE COMMENTS

NEW YORK, Sept 3—Special—The Tribune estimates the republican majority in Vermont at 20,000. It says this is the average majority and practically what well informed observers expected.

The Times says: It is evident that republicans have suffered more from general apathy than democrats and this in spite of their popular candidate for governor. So far as the election has any significance with reference to November it shows a marked lack of interest and confidence among the republicans.

The World thinks there is nothing discouraging to the democracy in the result of the Vermont election.

The Herald says: It is manifest that several thousand Vermont republicans withheld their votes even from the respectable state ticket to signify their reprobation of their party's presidential nomination in November.

The Philadelphia Times thinks that Vermont's majority will reach 21,000. It says [illegible] so much [illegible] state as Vermont it is [illegible]. It will be [illegible] to do nothing to reanimate the flagging Blaine campaign.

The Philadelphia Press says: The vote on both sides suffers from the lack of a canvass. But the substantial results [illegible] changed and the republican majority is proportionately the same as the average of past years. It throws into [illegible] the elaborate [illegible] of [illegible] and chatter about the [illegible] who was [illegible] his grievances against [illegible]. Such voters [illegible]

OUTLOOK NOT HOPEFUL

NEW YORK, Sept 3—[Special]—The Star, Kelly's organ, prints a special of a Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who, after interviewing Dana and others, concluded: "If I should be broadly asked the result of my conclusions, I would say the outlook here is not hopeful. In no quarter are there indications such as point to a reconciliation of democratic factions in New York, and if they are not brought together the loss of the state is conceded, not alone by republicans, but by democrats who are zealously putting their shoulders to the wheel to compass Cleveland's election. The cast of the die is in Ohio. Ohio can save Cleveland, and the whistle in the Empire state. The [illegible] democratic [illegible] beginning to awaken [illegible] full realization of [illegible] and the immediate plans for a great battle in the state are to be formulated."

The Star says: The [illegible] agrees substantially with ours. Unless the democrats carry Ohio next month the whole battle will be lost, for it is only by a signal victory there that the shadow of [illegible] will [illegible] them in every northern state except perhaps Indiana. On the other hand it is by no means impossible that the republicans will carry Ohio in November after losing it in October. These are facts and it is useless to disguise or misrepresent them.

THE HALF BREEDS IN A PANIC

NEW YORK, Sept 3—Special—The News Albany special says: Young Hamilton Harris and other half breeds are in a panic to-night. They have tracked George J Gorham who was on his way to visit Roscoe Conkling in the executive chamber. The announcement of the half breeds that Conkling would not make speeches for Blaine for votes for senator [illegible] interpreted as having a deeper significance than at first appeared. These are clues that the half breeds have succeeded in weaving into an harmonious whole. J [illegible] Smythe visited Conkling in New York. Smythe came to Albany. Smythe and Gorham saw Cleveland. Gorham is to see Conkling. The interview between Gorham, Smythe and Cleveland to-day lasted thirty five minutes. None of the participants would say a word about it last night.

DANIEL [illegible]

CHICAGO, Sept 3—William Daniel prohibition candidate for vice president, delivered an address at Lake Bluff yesterday afternoon in the presence of about 100 people. He devoted himself principally to an account of what had been done by prohibition in Maryland. The speaker asserted that were it not for the vast patronage which the republicans have, and which the democrats expect, the mass of the people would flock into the prohibition ranks. In answer to a statement that his party would draw its strength mainly from the republicans Daniel said every county in Maryland where prohibition was defeated was republican. The prohibition party was the only one which was honest in promise of producing reform and he promised that inside of a very few years the prohibitionists would record a triumph.

THE BLAINE LIBEL SUIT

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept 3—In the United States district court to-day Judge Woods overruled the demurrer filed by defense in the Blaine Sentinel suit. Attorney for the defense appeared and announced that the Sentinel's answer would be ready to-morrow and Blaine's counsel waived the formality of ruling the defense to answer. The Sentinel's counsel say it will not be possible to be ready before November for the reason that witnesses live at a distance from Indianapolis and great work will be required in taking depositions.

It was resolved to hold a reunion about the middle of September extending over three days at which Logan will be present. We are [illegible] in companies [illegible] as if we were going to battle. There are about 1,000 veterans in this city already enrolled.

THE [illegible]

STATE CONVENTIONS

MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

WORCESTER, Sept 3—The democratic state convention was called to order by General Collins who congratulated the democratic party upon the certainty of success in November.

The officers of the state committee were made temporary officers and committees were appointed. Twenty two cities and [illegible] towns were represented by 1,[illegible] delegates. James H French is permanent chairman.

An informal vote was taken for governor. The chairman stated that a package of votes had been found so closely put together that they must have been cast by mistake.

Colonel Haggott said the chair had very mildly designated as a mistake the bunch of ballots found by the committee but every one knew what each mistake meant to a political convention.

A formal ballot was then ordered and the delegates required to pass over the stage and deposit their votes with the chairman and secretary. On this formal ballot William Endicott was nominated for governor receiving 9[illegible] votes of the [illegible] cast or four votes more than necessary for a choice.

The nomination was made unanimous and the ticket completed as follows: Lieutenant governor James S Grinnell, secretary of state Jeremiah Crowley, treasurer and receiver general Charles Marsh, auditor, John Hopkins, attorney general, John W Cummings.

The convention then adjourned.

The platform adopted congratulates the party on the brilliant prospect of the restoration of honest national government through the election of Cleveland and Hendricks. It declares unqualified approval of the national platform and opposes war taxes in times of peace with a vast surplus in the treasury to excite cupidity and encourage extravagance. It demands an American navy that shall not be a disgrace to the country, and a peer and by word amongst the nations of the earth and the restoration of our shipping so that the products of our industries may be borne in American bottoms under the stars and stripes. The nomination of Blaine according to the platform is a cause for humiliation and the nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks cause for congratulation. The rights of labor and an extended suffrage are also advanced.

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

BOSTON, Sept 3—The republican state convention was called to order this morning by Chairman Lodge who made no address. Temporary officers of the convention were chosen and a committee was then appointed on permanent organization which reported for president Robert M Morse Jr. President Morse noted the absence from the convention of some former associates, men of high character who thought it necessary to part company with their old comrades for a while. He reviewed the course of the democratic congress with regard to national election laws and declared it an impossibility to have fair elections in the south. He contrasted the course of the democratic congress with that of Blaine and quoted Carl Schurz remark in 1880: "One thing is certain, that the democratic principle is to the victors belong the spoils." Morse reviewed the attitude of both parties upon the tariff and closed by a defense of the character of Blaine.

It was moved that the old ticket be renominated by acclamation. Carried unanimously.

Mr Lodge moved that the nomination of George D Robinson for governor be by acclamation. The motion was carried with an outburst of enthusiasm.

The report of the committee on resolutions was presented and adopted without debate. The platform recites the great achievements of the republican party and affirms that it alone can deal wisely with the questions of the day in both state and national affairs. In the tariff reforms corrections should be made with a view to reduce the surplus, and at the same time correct inequalities, but not by horizontal reduction which is a step towards the disastrous experiment of free trade. It pledges the republican party to further interest in the laboring classes, favors continued reform in the civil service and opposes enforced political assessment. A foreign policy is demanded which shall protect all citizens everywhere. The restoration of the navy is advised and the further coinage of silver dollars is opposed.

Senator Hoar in the course of a speech, said, in referring to young men: You are not in voting for Cleveland, helping to elect a president, you are simply aiding a conspiracy which is to take possession of the supreme executive office. After a few remarks by N P Banks the convention adjourned.

TEXAS REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

HOUSTON, TEX, Sept 3—The republican state convention reassembled this morning. Resolutions favoring fusion with the greenbackers and independents and endorsing George Washington Jones independent candidate for governor were tabled by a test vote, 100 ayes to 270 nays. The committee on resolutions then reported. The majority report declares it inexpedient and impractical at this day to place a state ticket in the field, recommends that the republicans aid the independent candidates for state offices to defeat the democracy. The minority report declares in favor of a straight republican state ticket, also a Blaine and Logan electoral ticket. On a motion to substitute the minority for the majority report an excited and angry debate followed. Without coming to a vote the convention adjourned until 3 o'clock.

CONVENTION ORGANIZED

HOUSTON, Texas—The republican convention met yesterday, organized and adjourned until to-day.

The majority report of the committee on resolutions was adopted by a [illegible] vote. The resolutions oppose the [illegible] law and favor selling the public lands to actual settlers and condemn the present mode of drawing grand and petit juries [illegible] the right to sit on juries. After the adoption of the resolutions a motion carried amid much uproar to adjourn sine die.

GENERAL NEWS.

Frisbie, the Bank Defaulter, Arrested in New York.

HE MAKES A CONFESSION OF HIS GUILT

High handed Behavior of Colorado Cattle Men—The Miners Troubles in Ohio—News Items from Various Points

NEW YORK, Sept 3—On arrival of the Pacific Mail steamer Colon at quarantine Frank Frisbie assistant exchange clerk in the First National bank of Portland Oregon who was a passenger was arrested. He is charged with stealing from the bank $[illegible] deposited by the Northern Pacific railroad.

NEW YORK, Sept 3. Frisbie the Portland Oregon defaulter arrested here has made a confession. He says his brother some three years ago [illegible] him to invest in a mountain mine. He was then in the hosiery business in this city but he went to Montana and was made president of a mining company. Mining did not pay and he went to Portland. [illegible] after he was employed in the First National bank as assistant exchange clerk. His salary did not suffice to keep him and he helped himself to deposits made by the Oregon division of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company of which he had charge. He regularly abstracted some portion of the contents of packages of bills from station agents and conductors which passed through his hands. He continued stealing and when he found that he had taken more than he could repay he ran away. With what was left he went with his family to San Francisco on a sailing vessel and then took passage in a Pacific Mail steamer for this city. Afterward he got tickets for Paris thinking to throw the police off the track. He said he did not know how much he had taken. A small portion of the money was found in his possession. Detectives left for Albany to-day to get the necessary papers to take the prisoner to Oregon.

Survivors of the Greely Party Interviewed

CLEVELAND, Sept 3—Sergeant Brainard and Long and private Connolly of the Greely Arctic expedition now here were shown this morning telegrams from Washington stating that an army officer who has seen the diaries of the expedition says the survivors when found were in two parties, one headed by Brainard and the other by Long, and living separately as two tribes and refusing to speak to each other; that Greely was an invalid the last two months and the party headed by Brainard cared for him like a child; that the stealing of rations was a common practice and that the hunters sent out for birds [illegible] them for themselves. Each of these [illegible] Brainard, Long and Connolly [illegible] emphatically. All insist that the party was not divided but all the five slept in the wall tent, Brainard and [illegible] slept together under a [illegible] because the [illegible] was not large enough for all.

Sergeant Brainard says Lieutenant Greely walked out every day and was able and competent to command the party which he did throughout. All agree that nobody except Henry was shot.

The special report of the same army officer says Brainard when found, was much stronger than the rest. When he came aboard the Bear surprise was expressed at it and when he was asked why that was he said: "O I could eat the stuff and digest it, but the others could not." When a member of the [illegible] party remarked the absence of Dr Pavy's body and expressed wonder as to what became of it Brainard said: "He is all gone. I finished the last of him just before you arrived."

This being shown Sergeant Brainard he said: "I know who are my accusers but who gave the [illegible] I was not [illegible] I was not on the Bear. The story is from whole cloth."

Sergeant Long and private Connolly corroborate Brainard.

The Railroad Pool Association

NEW YORK, Sept 3—[Special]—There is a lull just now in the demoralizing war waged between [illegible] through lines and all parties are awaiting the decision of the transcontinental pool association. A [illegible] reporter saw a [illegible] agent [illegible] who had just returned from Saratoga and asked him what [illegible] pool association. [illegible] was held at the Grand Union hotel yesterday morning. Every [illegible] representative and some [illegible] had been [illegible] the meeting adjourned till afternoon.

In the afternoon the meeting adjourned until early this morning. The policy seems to be one of delay and in my opinion the association will settle nothing at this meeting but will adjourn to meet at another time and place. Has any action been taken regarding the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe? asked the representative. None as yet. That of course is the most important point for discussion. Other [illegible] people thought the meeting would last for [illegible] days and [illegible] existing questions are not now settled the association will adjourn to meet in New York at an early day. The [illegible] agreement for freight to California is very [illegible] and but little business is done by any of the present lines. The [illegible] says:

It is believed that the Transcontinental association will yet agree on some kind of amicable arrangement.

A Bad State of Affairs

WASHINGTON, Sept 3—Law Clerk St John of the general land office who was detailed to investigate fraudulent entries in southeastern Colorado reports that he found a number of fraudulent entries north of Trinidad Colorado in Las Animas county. Mr St John says that he found at least 100,000 acres of public land fenced in with barbed wire. These cases have already been reported to this department. Hall and Barrilla have thus enclosed an area about ten miles square and Thompson another cattle man has enclosed a tract six to ten miles in extent. Great hardships to settlers and delay in their results from these unlawful enclosures of the public domain. The penalty inflicted by stock men upon persons who dare to cut these fences or leave gates open is death and in many such fences are to be found signs reading: Cut this fence and buy your coffin. The herders are usually Mexicans of the lowest class and the person who ventures to trespass the rule and cut fences is shot down by one of them and detection of the assassin is almost impossible.

Hungarian Cheap Labor

NEW YORK, Sept 3—Special—The Commercial Bulletin says of the Ohio mining troubles: We look on the demonstration against the Hungarians and their so called cheap labor as a reaffirmation in Ohio of the same feeling which not long ago succeeded in driving Chinese and their so called cheap labor from the Pacific coast and subsequently prohibiting their importation into it. It is a feeling which has been spreading since through demagogues of both parties who are expecting workingmen's support. In proof of which we have but to revert to the planks in the Chicago platforms against what it suits their purposes to call foreign contract labor. This is but acting euphemism to cover the latent hostilities against imported labor and laborers of every kind. It was the Chinaman yesterday, to-day it is the Hungarian and again to-morrow it may be the German or Scandinavian or Celt. It is but the ghost of knownothingism revived in a new hood.

The Cattle Disease Scare

SPRINGFIELD, Sept 3—Governor Hamilton to-day issued a proclamation based upon the report of the state veterinarian upon the existence of pleuro pneumonia. The proclamation includes the county of Fairfield in Connecticut, the counties of Putnam, West Chester, New York, Kings and Queens in New York, the counties of Lehigh, Berks, Montgomery, Philadelphia, Delaware, Chester, Lancaster, York, Adams and Cumberland, in Pennsylvania, all the counties in the state of New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia and Miami county in Ohio, prohibiting the importation of cattle from any of those states. Governor Hamilton is also in correspondence with Governor Porter of Indiana regarding the appearance of pleuro pneumonia among certain short horn herds in that state.

The Coal Miners Strike

COAL CENTER, Pa, Sept 3—It is thought by many that trouble on the river is fast drawing to an end and unless there is a general movement among operators to introduce Hungarians matters will have assumed such shape before another week that the services of Sheriff Chambers and his deputies will no longer be required. The strikers have not interfered with non union workmen since Saturday and more men are at work to-day than for two weeks. Efforts to establish camps at Courtney and Coal Bluff are a failure so far. Not over half a dozen men are at the former and about twenty at the latter. About twenty Hungarians are at work at Neel's mines in the third pool.

The New York Cable Roads

NEW YORK, Sept 3—(Special) The World has the following: It is asserted on trustworthy authority that the great Central Pacific railroad magnate C P Huntington is deeply interested in the cable railway scheme now under consideration, and which it is understood is to be rushed through by the common council at the proper time. The story discussed is that D O Mills represents the Huntington rapid transit commission in a quiet and retired room in the Tribune building and Gamble the old Western Union Telegraph man in San Francisco has been put in charge of the cable system.

A DETECTIVE'S EXPERIENCE WITH THE TENNESSEE ASSASSINS

NASHVILLE, Sept 3—Detective Frank Moore of Evansville Indiana passed through this city to-day on his return home from Lewis county Tennessee, where he went to work up the case against citizens who killed the Mormon elders Barr and Gibbs. He said: I visited Lewis county to ascertain some clues which would lead to the arrest of the mob engaged in the murder. Meeting a citizen I asked him if he knew any of the parties concerned in the killing, to which he replied that he knew all of them and would reveal their names if I would give him $10. He made an appointment with me to meet him in the woods and said he would have one of the guilty parties present. I kept the appointment but was hardly got under an old beech tree when I was surrounded by forty or fifty masked men. They asked me why I came to Lewis county. I told them I came to get the names of the parties implicated in the Mormon massacre. The captain then ordered the men to hang me. They put a rope around my neck but I begged piteously for my life and they finally agreed to let me go, giving me one hour to leave Lewis county. At this time they had the noose around my neck and the loose end thrown over a limb of a tree, and were about to haul me up. Before letting me go they pinned a red cross made of cloth to my shirt and told me to leave my coat open. I was so scared that I took the railroad track near Mt Pleasant and walked to the next station. I will not return to the south.

THE MISSOURI OUTRAGE

SAVANNAH, Mo, Sept 3—Hon David Benjamin arrived here this afternoon from Flag Springs, the scene of the diabolical outrage and murder of the two little McLaughlin girls Sunday. He says there is great excitement among the people. A young man aged 16 years, son of Thomas Bateman, a respectable farmer and near neighbor of the McLaughlins, was arrested Monday but subsequently released. He is under surveillance however and there is strong circumstantial evidence of his guilt. The coroner's jury was still in session last night, and it was not known whether a verdict would be reached before morning.

A dispatch from Union Star says: Young Bateman has been arrested again and is now being taken to Savannah by officers. Additional circumstances and evidence point to Bateman as the guilty party and it is said if he proves to be the right man he will be lynched at once.

The little girls were buried to-day, a great crowd being present to witness the ceremony, and a [illegible] was subscribed by the people present for monuments to be placed over their graves.

TROUBLE AT A FUNERAL

WASHINGTON, Sept 3. The funeral to-day of Rev [illegible] (colored) reader [illegible] of the [illegible] Baptist church was largely attended. There was considerable disorder and only the presence of a strong police force prevented a riot. He called last Monday and announced his intention, saying they had better separate. This statement was a terrible shock and she fell speechless and went into spasms. The young man becoming greatly alarmed aroused her parents but all efforts to relieve the girl proved futile. The young man was willing to make any reparation but it was too late, the poor girl died of a broken heart. Her sufferings were most intense and at times it required the strength of three strong men to hold her in bed. Her cries could be heard for a long distance. In this terrible state of mind she died.

The question now rested with the people.

GERMANY

BERLIN NOTES

BERLIN, Sept 3—Upon the occasion yesterday of the anniversary of the battle of Sedan, the emperor sent to Bismarck the order of "Pour le Merite" surrounded by oak leaves and an autograph letter expressing the deepest appreciation of his services.

The North German Gazette attributes to Bismarck the design to create a political blockade against England by the formation of a coalition of the powers unless her egotistical policy of colonial extension is abandoned.

Growing activity is apparent in the German electoral campaign. The socialists of Berlin have brought forward six candidates—Volmar, Hasenclever, Lutzauer, Nietz, Singer and Guellenberger. Among the progressist candidates are Virchow, Loewe, Klotz, Prager and Eugene Richter.

REVIEW OF TROOPS

CHINA

SALE OF THE CHINESE MERCHANT FLEET

LONDON, Sept 3—The Times Foo Chow correspondent telegraphs that the Chinese merchant fleet sold to Russell consisted of twenty six steamers aggregating 23,644 tonnage. The company started twelve years ago and was under the patronage of Li Hung Chang, who obtained loans from the government, to whom the company was indebted 2,000,000 taels ($3,000,000). Their business was mainly India and China ventures to London and San Francisco but it proved a failure. The managers went into speculations outside of their proper business, to the disadvantage of the company. The long time during which these practices were in operation led to serious financial difficulties and the unfortunate condition of China served to increase the distress. The sale of the merchant fleet ended one of the most important steps in industrial progress in the Chinese empire.

MATTERS AT FOO CHOW

LONDON, Sept 3—The Times Foo Chow dispatch of yesterday's date reports the city and the European settlement quiet. The English vice-consul has returned to the Pagoda under a Chinese guard. IN HONOR OF GREELY

The Great Explorer Given a Complimentary Lunch at Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept 3—Most sections of the British Association have completed their labors and the final meeting will be held to-day. Yesterday afternoon a complimentary lunch was given Lieutenant Greely by members of the British Association. About fifty sat down. General Sir Henry Lefroy presided with Lieutenant Greely and Mrs. Greely on his right and Lieutenant Ray on the left. The vice chair was filled by Captain Bedford Pim, the queen and president being toasted.

Lieutenants Greely and Ray and Mrs Greely were honored with a sentiment. The Lieutenant upon rising was greeted with great applause. He said:

Mr President, ladies and gentlemen: I need scarcely say that this flattering reception from representatives of one of England's most distinguished societies touches deeply my feelings as a soldier and as a man. It is not alone that you represent the science and learning of England and of the world but that you are all countrymen of those daring seamen and explorers whose names and whose deeds have become household words throughout the world—Hudson, Baffin, Cook, Nelson, Parry, Franklin and a score of others among the dead and McClintock, Nares and Markham and last but not least he whose name was oftenest on our lips when praying for relief during the past terrible winter, Bedford Pim. What these men have done the whole world knows; that you should deem aught that I have done worthy to be placed with the deeds of these illustrious men must always be a source of pride to me. For three centuries England has maintained against the world the honor of farthest north; step by step every advance was made by Englishmen. Now England's grandest colony presses to the front, but none the less is the honor England's, for at the price of her sons' lives and by their toil the path was cleared. But for Beaumont's dauntless pluck and indomitable energy in 1876 Lockwood would never have made his great northing in 1882. I have during a quarter of a century's service, as becomes a soldier, been jealous of my honor. I have striven to maintain it in the field fighting and bleeding for my country, at the desk studying and discussing scientific and geographical work, or later stranded by adverse fate, starving, and freezing upon a barren coast. This marked and public testimonial of your approval cannot fail to make me deeply jealous of it in days to come.

LIEUTENANT RAY'S SPEECH

Lieutenant Ray in his speech said: We shall long remember that when the cry for help for our starving comrades flashed round the world that it was English ships that made the rescue possible, and that England's queen sent the staunch Alert to help break their icy prison. Men who die in this work die not in vain; they gave their lives that we may learn some of nature's secrets that lie locked with icy bars, and their example will spur the living to better deeds and loftier lives, and no man will read how Lockwood, Rice, Ellison and others died without thinking better of his race. And while we welcome the living who were brought back to us from the verge of the grave let us remember the honored dead who to pass the icy gate of queen's highway paid toll with their lives, who passed Markham in the race and scored four miles on the road to the pole. Their sled tracks have faded from the [illegible] and [illegible] their snow huts have fallen in, but their names will live to add to the glory of the [illegible] race.

Lieutenant Ray, at the conclusion of his speech, was heartily cheered. Sir Henry Lefroy then presented [illegible] address.

SALVATION ARMY BENEFIT

PARIS, Ont, Sept 3—Two hundred men and a boy surrounded the gospel army barracks last night for the purpose of ragging General Atherton. Some members of the army who ventured out were greeted with a shower of fragrant missiles and beat a hasty retreat. The army was kept prisoners until 2 A. M., when they managed to escape. The police are powerless. Atherton's reputed relation with female members of the army caused the trouble.

New York.

This is to certify that I am well acquainted with a man fifty years of age, for many years a resident of this city, who has been at times extremely ill, but could not tell from what cause, unless it was worms. He told his attending physician his suspicions, but the physician at once ridiculed the idea and refused to attend him any longer. His son then mentioned Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and asked him if he would take it; his reply was—I must take something to get relief, or die. They at once procured a bottle of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and he took one dose. The result was he passed upwards of three quarts of worms, cut up in every form. He got well immediately and is now enjoying excellent health; and like the good Samaritan of old, is endeavoring to relieve his unfortunate neighbors. He makes it his business to hunt up and select all cases similar to his own that may be given over by regular physicians, and induces them to try Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge. So far he has induced more than twenty persons to take the Vermifuge, and in every case with the most happy results. He is well satisfied that Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, is far superior to any other known remedy, and that if more generally known would not fail to save many valuable lives. For further particulars inquire of Mr. Hanna, 14½ Cannon street, New York City.

THURSDAY MORNING. SEPT. 4, 1884.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

A citizen of Portland, always a republican from conscientious principle, but who has had some hesitation about making up his mind to vote for Blaine, coupled with a possible thought of deciding in favor of Cleveland, not long since saw the name of an old friend and classmate, who now occupies one of the leading pulpits of Buffalo, given among others as authority for a statement as to Cleveland's life and character. He at once addressed to his friend a letter of inquiry about Cleveland, and received the following answer:

> I think I know what I am talking about when I say that Grover Cleveland is: First—Intellectually, a very small pattern of a man. Second—Morally, licentious and intemperate. Third—Politically, a narrow-minded partisan democrat. There never was a greater case of idealizing than in his instance. No such man exists in Buffalo as is pictured by G. W. Curtis and others, under the name of Cleveland. Of course democrats are expected to vote for him, but why any one else should do so passes my comprehension. Luckily there is no chance for him, as the signs are, save by the choice going to the house of representatives. He is a poor candidate for you to begin with as a substitute for the republican nominee. It is a mistake to credit me with signing any statement against Cleveland. I never have done anything of the sort. But I do believe that all of Rev. Dr. Ball's charges against him are true, and much more. This, I think, is conceded by three-fourths of the well-informed people of Buffalo. Perhaps the other one-fourth believe him to be maligned, though this fraction admit that he used to be a libertine. Don't you support him!

Leaving the exposition of the personal character and moral standing of Mr. Cleveland to those who, like the writer of the above, have best means of knowing, the general observer may find in Mr. Cleveland's own utterances abundant material for an estimate of the man intellectually and politically. All his utterances show him to be a dull and stupid kind of man. His stock of ideas is limited to a few labored commonplaces. He has no variety of thought or facility of expression. His portraits discover a heavy, overfed and sensual habit, bearing the stamp of mediocrity as plainly as his attempts to speak or write reveal the poverty of intellect. Politically he may be summed up in his own claim that he has always been a consistent democrat. That is, he has through his whole life been too narrow to entertain a thought in opposition to his party, though his life has covered the era of his party's championship of everything that is bad in politics. He stood with his party in opposing the abolition of slavery, in resolving that the war was a failure, in trying to defeat the constitutional amendments and then in trying to destroy them, in the long and persistent endeavor to withhold civil rights from the colored people of the country, in the effort to debase the national conscience on financial questions, in the whole scheme of things that has caused the country during so long a period to distrust and reject the democratic party. He is but a narrow man who not only has not been quickened by the impulse of what has been done in America for liberty and justice during the last twenty-five years, but has in fact opposed this movement at every step. Such a man may well enough be taken out of the vocation of the plodding and common place lawyer and made the sheriff of a county, and such a man would be glad of the higher opportunity which the office of sheriff would give him. Accident might even make him the governor of a state, and supposed availability secure him a nomination for the presidency; but as yet the people of the United States have never elected to the presidency a man so manifestly poor in intellectual resources as Grover Cleveland, nor one so immoral in personal conduct and private life as those who know Cleveland best assert him to be.

NEWS AND OPINION.

A reader in Southern Oregon complains that THE OREGONIAN is more an organ of republican than of democratic opinion; that it gives more republican than democratic news; that he does not find the New York Times, the World and other papers that support Cleveland quoted so often in its telegraphic reports as the Sun, Philadelphia Press, and other papers that oppose Cleveland or support Blaine; and though he finds THE OREGONIAN indispensable for its general news, yet he thinks it biased and regrets that it is so. The complaint made by our friend lies to some extent against every newspaper that takes a pronounced part in a political contest. The thing complained of becomes unavoidable. In every political contest in which a newspaper participates—and every newspaper worth the name does participate in a presidential contest—each journal is naturally drawn into closer association or connection with political friends than with political opponents. Its sources of news are by necessity more closely associated with one party than the other. We do not now speak of the associated press, which aims to be quite impartial, since it serves journals of both parties, but of other news not covered by the associated press, and which, in fact, from its partiality to one side or the other the associated press cannot touch. Our critic will not find in journals that support Cleveland, as the Times, World and Herald of New York, any news or opinion favorable to Blaine. It is not their policy to publish it, nor have they arrangements for getting it. While THE OREGONIAN cannot claim to be a great newspaper like those of eastern cities, with unlimited resources for buying and carrying news, nevertheless it publishes more of democratic news and opinion than any of the great independent or democratic journals named by our correspondent publish of republican news or opinion. The associated press, whose management is mainly in republican hands, to avoid the charge of partisan bias, nearly always gives fuller democratic than republican reports. We have not yet had so full a report of a speech on the republican side of the canvass as the report of that delivered by Mr. Hendricks at Indianapolis on Saturday night last and published in THE OREGONIAN next morning. Never a day passes that does not find in our columns a large amount of news of the democratic, greenback or prohibition campaign. We know we do not bring by telegraph from eastern papers as much editorial opinion favorable to Cleveland as against him. Few, we think, would expect us to do this. Certainly the democratic papers, east or west, do nothing of the kind, nor do even the greatest of the independent papers. It may be said, then, by our critic, that THE OREGONIAN is not an ideal journal. Possibly; and we may add that a small town upon the remote verge of the continent is a poor place to publish an ideal journal containing everything, including opinions to suit everybody. There is, however, a clear distinction between news and opinion, which THE OREGONIAN endeavors to maintain.

The forthcoming statement of the postmaster general will show that this great country has now over 50,000 postoffices for its over 50,000,000 people, or about one for every 1,000 persons. The employes of the department number over 100,000. Of course, the sum required to run so large an establishment is something enormous. The salaries of postmasters alone amount to nearly $10,000,000, and the sum paid for transportation of mails $25,000,000. The number of postoffices is increasing steadily at the rate of 2,000 a year.

The thrifty queen of England, who is immensely wealthy and as penurious as she is affluent, is said to be about to revise her will. Her intentions are unknown, but it is safe to say that none of the property will go outside her immediate family. It is expected that an application will be made by her to parliament "in behalf of the children of the prince of Wales." Parliament has refused several requests made by her to pay the debts of the prince.

The New York Sun now calls Cleveland "a man of beef." This is more contemptuous than calling General Hancock "a good man—weighing 250 pounds.

THE VULGAR HEART.

"A habitation giddy and unsure
Hath he who buildeth on the vulgar heart."

A correspondent of the New York Sun closes a long letter, in which both the democratic and the republican parties are severely arraigned, with the hysterical inquiry, "Is there not a chance for a new-born people's party, with absolute, outspoken, able and courageous standard bearer like General Butler, to redeem and save the country?" It is probable that General Butler thinks so, otherwise he would not be trying to organize such a party. A large number of people evidently agree with him. But many are supporting him, not because they expect he will succeed, but because they think that by so doing they will cause a disruption of the old parties, and out of the wrecks of both a better party may be formed. They regard Butler very much in the light of the quack who threw all his patients, no matter what ailed them, into fits, and then doctored them for that lively complaint because, as he said, "he was death on fits." In other words, they think that the old parties are so strongly intrenched in the various interests of the country, and in its traditions, that nothing short of a revolution can overthrow them, and open the way for a new party.

But whatever may be the need of a new party it cannot be formed upon the Butler platform, and it would be a terrible calamity if it could be. Butler is building on the vulgar heart. In his career as governor of Massachusetts he proved an exception to the almost universal rule that a man, acting under the responsibilities of an important official trust, will be more conservative and decent than in private life. He slandered his state, quarreled with its officers, and sought the applause of the ignorant and vicious populace by publishing a shameless and filthy sensational report of an investigation of the Tewksbury almshouse, which he never visited. He was never more fittingly characterized than by the New York Sun in 1873 as a "bad man with crooked ways, foul methods, distorted mind and wicked heart, who glories in these moral deformities, flaunts them constantly before the public eye and traffics in them as political merchandise. Rejoicing in his own shame and coining money from open venality, discarding any pretense of principle, bound by no ties of honor, scoffing at religion, making politics a trade, despotic when clothed with authority, cowardly by nature, mercenary from habit and destitute of one ennobling quality for manly attributes to lift him up above these wretched characteristics." His recent address to his "constituents" has been aptly styled "the culmination of the colossal impudence and arrogance of a man whose life has been spent in self-seeking of the most sordid kind, pursued with a duplicity and unscrupulousness without modern parallel." He has belonged to all parties, has deserted all parties, has fought and traduced all parties. He has no guiding principle beyond a desire for notoriety. He is only in his element so long as he is a disturbing force. He denounces the press because it has so frequently exposed his greed, his tergiversations, and his charlatanism. When the communists were in possession of Paris, setting fire to the public buildings and slaughtering priests and patriotic soldiers and citizens, he was regarded, like his close friend Wendell Phillips, as one who approved and justified their sanguinary acts. His letter addressed to the greenbackers, workingmen and anti-monopolists is demoralizing in its essence and tendency. He professes to despise both political parties, yet recommends union with either in states where each is weakest, and he advises the organization of a people's party, with himself, of course, as high priest and trusted counsellor, which will solve the hitherto insoluble problem of securing to employes high wages by heavily taxing imported goods, and at the same time preventing the monopolies which it is the function of all high tariffs to produce.

While posing as the friend of the workingman he has been paying the operatives in his mill at Lowell less than those in neighboring mills, and his own profits at the same time, as the records show, have averaged 26¼ per cent. He is not only a monopolist but the friend and ally of monopolists. While in congress he antagonized the Thurman bill to compel the Pacific railroads to pay the annual instalments of interest owed by them to the government. In the critical hour of the strike of Western Union operatives a year ago, when it was in his power to aid the oppressed, he threw his influence in favor of Gould's gigantic monopoly and gave the strike a demoralizing blow. He has never in his political life accomplished one good thing, and those who are now deluded by him will find themselves in the end deserted and deceived. He is supremely selfish, and he appeals to the same motives as those by which he is actuated. And this is the reason why he will fail. He aims below the average line of humanity, at "the vulgar heart," and therefore his followers will always be the minority, and even their support will not be lasting. Our government rests upon the conviction, expressed by Fisher Ames, that "the people always mean right, and if time is allowed for reflection and information they will do right." Its policy is shaped, to quote again from Mr. Ames, by the "calm review of public transactions which is made by the citizens, who have families and children as pledges of their fidelity." Popular governments are destroyed, he said, by faction and enthusiasm. "The people when they lose their liberties are cheated out of them. They nourish factions in their bosoms which will subsist so long as abusing their credulity shall be the means of acquiring power." It is only a faction that Butler addresses, and this he can keep alive only so long as he can successfully abuse their credulity. And this will not be long. The Central labor union of New York, representing many thousands of workingmen, almost unanimously voted not to invite him to be present at their parade last Monday. There are other indications that "the calm review of public transactions" which these citizens have made has already decided them to pay no attention to the man who recognizes in them nothing but a vulgar heart. They know what moral nobleness means, even though they do not always reach it, and in their final treatment of Butler the truth of those lines from Shakespeare with which we introduced this article, will receive a fresh and powerful illustration.

There will be plenty of food this year, no matter who is elected president. According to the last report of the statistician of the department of agriculture, the condition of the corn crop is higher than since 1880, and has been exceeded but three times in ten years; spring wheat has not been exceeded since 1877; winter wheat is harvested and is an assured crop, never exceeded except in 1880; cotton is rather backward, and the yield depends much on the weather to come; tobacco promises a large crop; the yield of potatoes will be large, though less than last year; hay and pasturage are in a low condition in the east and fine in the west; the apple crop will not be full for a bearing year on account of the late spring frosts; the peach crop is very large in the eastern peach districts. Altogether the earlier promises of a bountiful harvest seem certain of fulfilment.

In Massachusetts women and children are driving men out of many industries. The trades in which the former are a very large majority are awnings and tents, buttons, dress-trimmings, carpetings, clothing, cotton goods, woolens, fancy goods, flax and linen, hair work, hose, rubber, mixed textiles, paper, silks, sporting goods, straw goods, and worsteds—twenty in all. Sixty trades show a preponderance of men.

In 1859 Maine opened the contest badly for the republicans by going democratic for the first time in more than twenty years. It is conceded that it will go republican next Monday, the question being as to the size of the majority. Its vote will be some indication of trend of political sentiment; but if the managers of the republican national campaign would avoid a mistake they must recognize the fact that the real contest is not in the east, but in the west. It is, in fact, in Ohio. The liquor question in Ohio is in such shape as to make it doubtful whether the republicans can carry the state, and they certainly cannot without very hard work. As Ohio goes in October, so the presidential election will probably go; and Ohio is going to vote without much reference to Vermont and Maine.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, in speaking recently of the English system of parliamentary representation says that in 1858 one-sixth of the voters returned one-half of the house of commons, and the only improvement since then was that at present one-fifth instead of one-sixth of the voters returned one-half of the members. 8½ million people, in 85 counties, send 186 members to parliament, and the same number in 217 boroughs send 290 members; whereas, another six million, living in small towns and villages, send only 66 members. Another contrast cited is that of Warwick, with 12,000 inhabitants, sending two members to parliament, while only one more than that number is sent by the great town of Birmingham, with its population of 400,000. In what is known as the "Black Country," out of eight members sent to parliament four represent 80,000 people, and the other four about 600,000.

There is a great howl in Kentucky among the democrats over the election of a republican judge. It is a large district, composed of forty-one counties and the democrats had no thought of being beaten, and did not suspect it was necessary to do a little bulldozing or stuffing of ballot-boxes, until the votes were all counted and the returns filed with their several county officers. When the returns were all added up they were just 625 votes short and W. H. Holt, the republican candidate, elected. But this result need not encourage republicans to hope that the Danville and Copiah methods will be neglected to make the south solid for Cleveland, unless he is so badly beaten before election day as to make their work of no use.

In Vermont the republican vote is about 10 per cent, less than in 1880; the democratic vote is about 7 per cent. less. Neither party appears to have made much effort. It is rather strange that any real interest is ever taken in an election in Vermont, since the vote of one party has been more than two to one over the other for many years past. The real cause of the decrease of the vote now reported may perhaps be attributed, in part at least, to decrease of a voting population. Vermont has made no gain in aggregate population during the last twenty-five years, and the constant departure of her young men for the west increases the disparity between the number of voters and the total population.

The Labor World of Philadelphia says: "No man was ever so successful in bringing upon his head the condemnation of labor as Grover Cleveland. From Maine to California the universal sentiment among the working people is, 'Down with Cleveland and monopoly.' The labor papers are a unit on this subject."

The New York Daily News, whose circulation of 161,000 is among the laboring men of that city and vicinity, regrets that Butler did not take up the workingmen's cause until he had become rich through fees and emoluments "as the advocate and legal adviser of capitalists, monopolies and rich corporations."

CITY.

AUTUMN HAS ARRIVED.—The weather, which has been threatening for several days, at last made up its mind to have a bad spell. Yesterday morning the thermometer dropped and the barometer dropped [illegible] far to change. The clouds betokened approaching rain, and it was evident that autumn had arrived and taken charge of the weather business. Buildings were in demand, door springs were adjusted and fires were started in sitting rooms and offices. Summer underwear was discarded for something more substantial, thick shoes and umbrellas were hunted up, linen dusters were folded away in lavender and the faithful ulster stepped to the front. At [illegible] P. M. it began to rain in good old-fashioned style, and soon the eave spouts were pouring forth streams of muddy water. Expressmen hunted up wagon covers, truckmen spread their tarpaulins and everything moved on swimmingly. The "early rains" have come; the "latter rains" will be here later. The farmers will look glum, as the harvest is far from completed, but the chances are that when this little storm blows over we shall have a long spell of Indian summer weather. The rain will take a load off the minds of the state fair managers, as if it had not come now it would surely have fallen when the fair opened. The prospect is now good for favorable weather for the fair and a spell of good weather for winding up harvesting operations. Of course the weather may go back on all these predictions, but it is improbable, as we all know that Oregon has the finest climate in the world—and probably better than any out of it.

GAME AND FISH.—A hunter came up from Swaino's island yesterday with a fine lot of wood ducks and a string of yellow legged plover. He said that there are but few mallards to be seen, but that he saw some widgeons. So it seems that these birds are beginning to return from their breeding ground at the north, but they will not appear in numbers till winter has set in. There were a number of fine mallard ducks in the market yesterday. Trout continue to come in from the Cowlitz in such quantities that it is generally believed that they are caught in seines. Salt water fish from the Sound arrive in small lots, principally flounders and porgies with some rock cod and sea trout, the latter being especially fine. The oyster season is hardly commenced and the supply is not equal to the demand. The Shoal Water Bay oysters are very fair but will not be at their best for two weeks yet. Eastern oysters [illegible] seen as yet. Grouse and pheasants are quite plentiful and occasionally a deer comes to market, but there is no great demand for venison.

ABUSED CONFIDENCE.—A roustabout of a fellow named Gallagher was brought up before Judge Breland a short time since and sentenced to twenty days' imprisonment. Yesterday he said that he could get a berth on the Walla Walla if allowed to go out. The chief of police, thinking it a good job to rid the city of the loafer, allowed him his liberty, with orders that if he was found around town that night he was to be brought back. Policeman Keegan encountered him on First street near Washington, and attempted to arrest him. It was a case of Greek meeting Greek and of course the tug of war came on. Gallagher got Keegan down but the officer, after a desperate struggle, got on top, and attempted to handcuff the ruffian, who fought like a tiger. A crowd gathered around, and some one shouted, "Pull him off." Keegan drew his pistol, and the crowd concluded not to meddle with him. Gallagher is once more in the city jail, and will remain till his time is out.

FANCY SWEET FLOWERS.—A man accompanied by two little girls has been selling bouquets around town by the wagon load for several days past. He has a small piece of land planted to flowers in East Portland, and they appear to be quite a profitable crop, as he says he has sold $25 worth of bouquets within a week. His wife makes them up, and displays much taste. They are composed principally of dahlias and asters, with mignonette, candytuft and [illegible] to set them off, and they certainly furnish more of the beautiful than can often be got for two bits, and many a dull office is brightened up by one of these brilliant masses of color, which, being placed in the case, remain bright for a long time.

HE CAME PREPARED FOR WAR.—Last evening a person called at the police office and stated that there was a crazy man armed with a rifle, prowling around on Alder street, between Fifth and Sixth. Policemen Barry and Simmons were dispatched to look into the matter, and found that the supposed crank was a young man from East Portland who was waiting for a friend who was calling on a young lady in that locality. It is probable that the caller brought his friend with the rifle along to protect him, but whether from the wild natives of this city, jealous rivals, the angry parent or the young lady herself, is not known. However, it is not likely that the experiment will be repeated.

SALMON FROM NESTUCCA.—Notwithstanding that the season for taking chinook salmon is closed our citizens are not to be deprived of their supply of this favorite fish. About 500 pounds of genuine chinook salmon was received yesterday by C. A. Malarkey from Nestucca bay, where they were caught in salt water. The fish are landed at Orotown and hauled thirty miles across to Sheridan in Yamhill county, and shipped to this city by the West Side road, arriving in fine condition. A number of them will be shipped to New York, and it is expected that quite a trade will be carried on in these Nestucca fish. It seems a sort of roundabout way to get salmon for this market, but the people want the fish and they have to be supplied.

BILLIARDS.—A pool tournament on a hitherto unprecedented scale will commence on Monday evening next at the Brunswick billiard parlors, on First street. The tournament is attracting no little attention among lovers of the game, and promises to be very exciting. Ten contestants will compete, and careful computation shows that in order to demonstrate the supremacy forty-five games will have to be finished, lasting at least through fifteen nights. The fairest possible manner of counting will rule, allowing all competitors equal chances. The prizes announced are a valuable medal, a handsome cue presented by the Brunswick, Balke, Collender Co., and various cash prizes. A record of each night's play will be published. The games will be played on a B. B. C. Co. table.

TROUBLE ENDED.—The slight trouble caused by the deck hands and waiters on some of the O. R. & N. Co.'s boats striking on account of the reduction of their wages is all over, and the boats which arrived this evening will leave with full crews this morning. A considerable amount of freight has accumulated and the company will not receive any more till the dock is cleared, which will not take long. Notice of the receiving of freight being resumed will probably be given to-morrow. The wages of some of the men have without doubt been reduced too much, but it is confidently hoped that when the matter is properly represented to the eastern managers more favorable arrangements will be made.

SCHOOL OPENED.—St. Helen's Hall opened yesterday with a good attendance of pupils and a full corps of teachers. Miss L. Rodney resumed her place after a year's absence in the east. Miss Douglass, who has had long experience in schools in Ohio, comes to aid in the English department. Miss Pettibone and Miss Yerkes, also lately arrived from the east, come, the one to assist Miss O. Rodney in the musical department, and the other to take charge of the art department. These ladies bring the very highest reputation as teachers. Dr. Bolander has reinforced the English department, and takes the modern languages in hand.

REPAIRS COMPLETED.—The heretofore unnamed government tug boat, employed at the Cascade locks, which has been on the ways on the east side undergoing repairs for some time, is now ready for launching and will probably be slid into the water on Friday or Saturday. She will be named "The Cascades of the Columbia," and if that is not long enough some additional sentences can be subjoined. She has had new hog-chains put in, her machinery overhauled and has been sheathed with galvanized iron as protection against ice, and repainted, and is now a staunch and handsome craft.

PLENTY OF LEGAL TALENT.—The time of the U. S. circuit court, Justice Field sitting on the bench with Judge Deady, was occupied yesterday in hearing the arguments in the case of Sealey vs. Ladd, Reed, and the Oregon Iron and Steel works, in order to show cause [illegible] to the bill. Thos. Strong appeared for Sealey, Henry Ach for Ladd and Judge Williams for Reed. Mr. Whalley will appear for [illegible] Bros. & Watson. By the time these gentlemen have finished what the judges don't know about the case won't be worth telling.

LAST TRIP.—The steamer Lurline will make another of her Saturday night trips to Astoria, connecting there with boats for Ilwaco and Seaside house. The season is drawing to a close, and it is probable that but one or two more trips will be made. [illegible] Portland Saturday night, September [illegible] returning, leave Astoria Sunday evening at 7 P. M.

EXTENSIVE WHITEWASHING.—The fine range of warehouses at the north end, belonging to Captain Flanders, have been thoroughly whitewashed inside and out, as a precaution against weevil. That the work has been done in a thorough manner is evidenced by the fact that Captain Flanders, who never does things by halves, has spent about $1500 on the job.

ONLY A BURNING CHIMNEY.—An alarm was turned in at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon from box 14 for a burning chimney in the Manhattan house. There seemed to be considerable fear but no danger connected with the affair, and the department were a little bit disgusted and [illegible] to interview the man who [illegible]

BOY SCALDED.—An accident happened Tuesday night by which the oldest son of F. K. Wilson, living on College street, came near losing his sight, if not his life. The lad undertook to show the boys how to make a fire engine by placing fire in two coal oil cans and then placing a large coal oil can full of water on the tops of them. As soon as steam was up the can burst and knocked the lad about six feet, scalding him about the face and leg in a frightful manner. He is now under the charge of Dr. George Wigg, who says he will come out in good shape if nothing unforeseen should prevent. Boys should remember that every coal oil can must have a safety valve when full of water and over a fire.

THE WOUNDED BURGLAR.—The burglar, [illegible] shot by Dr. [illegible] he found out that the hole in his back is not as well as [illegible] Dr. Wheeler intimated to Chief of Police [illegible] yesterday that it would be well to have the fellow [illegible] sent up to the county jail, where he would [illegible] He is evidently playing possum a bit, and it is thought that if [illegible] he would be able to get out of it pretty lively. [illegible]

KEEP THE LITTLE FELLOW.—[illegible] Carpenter, the [illegible] working his little [illegible] the notice in The Oregonian he left suddenly. Any one knowing of his whereabouts will confer a favor by holding him [illegible] is obliged to leave the state. We have no use for such swindlers here.

FRISBIE CAPTURED.

The Defaulting Clerk of the First National Bank Run to Earth in New York—How He Was Tracked.

Since the excitement caused by the defalcation and flight of Frank Frisbie, assistant exchange clerk of the First National bank, subsided but little has been heard of the matter, and it has been almost forgotten by the public. But the affair had not been forgotten by Messrs. Corbett & Failing, and they have been quietly but steadily working to effect Frisbie's capture and to secure his punishment.

By a dispatch published elsewhere it will be seen that he was captured at New York yesterday morning, and that he has made a confession, which, however, appears to be incorrect in some particulars.

As soon as it was discovered that Frisbie had gone to San Francisco Messrs. Corbett & Failing telegraphed to James Gleason to look after him and secure his arrest and return here. Gleason was at Monterey and the dispatch did not reach him in time to prevent Frisbie from leaving San Francisco. Gleason was then ordered to find out where he had gone and to follow him and keep track of him. This proved a somewhat difficult job. The fugitive had taken steps to throw pursuers off the track, and Mrs. Howard, who had gone down from here as Mrs. Frisbie's maid, gave out that he had gone to the Sandwich Islands. Gleason doubted this and undertook to obtain the truth of the matter from Mrs. Howard, in which he at length succeeded by a skillful bit of detective work which stamps him the Vidocq of Oregon.

He found that Frisbie had purchased tickets for Europe, under an assumed name, via Panama, New York and the Hamburg-Bremen line of steamships. He communicated his discovery to Messrs. Corbett & Failing, who at once took steps to have the fugitive shadowed on his arrival at Panama. He was watched on board the steamer Colon at Aspinwall, bound for New York.

Gleason was then ordered to proceed to New York and be ready to receive him, and requisition papers were obtained from Governor Moody and forwarded to the governor of New York to be in readiness for his arrival. All this business had to be transacted with the greatest privacy, as it was feared that Frisbie's friends might get wind of the matter and cause some trouble in securing him. The city authorities and police of San Francisco, the state officials at Salem and the police here all had more or less to do with the matter, but so much care was used that the public knew nothing of what was going on. Gleason arrived in New York on the 27th of August and awaited the arrival of the Colon and the capture of Frisbie, which occurred yesterday. He then proceeded to Albany and returned last evening with the requisition and will probably leave for home with the prisoner to-day. If he succeeds in getting him here in safety he will have cause to feel elated.

Frisbie's statement in New York that his salary was not enough to live upon is not true. He was a very skillful accountant, and had his salary raised shortly after entering the bank.

Had he been satisfied to live in ordinary style he could have saved money. But he put on too much style and would have needed a whole bank of his own to keep him going. It is just as well for him that he is arrested, as he would have been shadowed wherever he went, and ultimately forced to surrender himself. His wife, who was certainly an accessory after the fact, is not included in the requisition. The woman Howard was also an accessory, but what steps will be taken in her case is uncertain. The charge against Frisbie is larceny from a banking house of $2500 in coin and $405 in currency. The bank has spent much more than that sum in securing his capture, as it was determined to spare no expense to capture him and secure his punishment.

EXTENSION OF THE ELEVATOR SYSTEM.

The board of fire commissioners presented the following communication to the council:

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the city of Portland—Gentlemen: At a regular meeting of the board of fire commissioners held September 1, and in accordance with the report of the chief engineer, [illegible] upon suggestions contained [illegible] and after a careful examination of the surroundings, and as a result of our investigations, conclude that the best interests of the city will be subserved by the extension of the hydraulic elevator system as far south as Market street. The present system has been in operation about six months, and its efficiency has been proven to the entire satisfaction of this department. This extension recommended will enable us to place one of the engine companies in the southern portion of the city, thus affording protection to property in that locality and avoid the unnecessary delay in climbing the steep grades. We would further recommend that three hydrants be placed on the [illegible] now laid in the northern end of the city. We are assured by the superintendent of said company that no charge will be made by them for the use of said system until the close of the present fiscal year. We therefore recommend that your honorable body enter into a contract with said company at as early date as possible.

The resolution giving notice of the proposed improvement of Second street from the south line of Mill street to the north line of Carruthers street by laying sidewalks, crosswalks and [illegible] the roadway full width, with [illegible], was referred [illegible] from the committee on streets and public property and its adoption recommended. Adopted.

THE MAYOR'S HACK BILL.

When the bill of L. B. Mason, for hack hire, $8, was read, there were some inquiries made and it was stated that the same bill had been before the council several times already. Mayor Chapman had used the hack in order to go to the city jail one night in his capacity of physician.

Councilman Gerdes said: "I move that the further consideration of this bill be indefinitely postponed."

A vote was called for and taken, but before it was announced Councilman Scoggins arose, and interrupting, said he had just examined the bill and found that it was endorsed favorably by Gerdes, Andrus and Sears, the old committee on health and police.

Sears said, "Yes, but that was a long time ago and the members of that committee have changed their minds since then, after finding out that the mayor had used the hack as a private citizen and not as a city official."

Scoggins moved as an amendment to the motion to indefinitely postpone that the bill be paid, and the chair decided that this was allowable as the vote already taken had not been announced.

Gerdes again addressed the council, saying the hack had been ordered by Captain Hair for the purpose of bringing the mayor to the jail to set a broken collar-bone when there were four or five other surgeons within a few blocks. For this service the city had already paid Dr. Chapman $25, and for his part he thought when a man could make twenty-five dollars in an hour's work that he ought to be able to pay his own hack hire.

"And yet the report of the committee recommending that this bill be paid is signed by R. Gerdes, chairman," said Councilman Scoggins.

"You know well enough that that was before we knew what the bill was for," retorted Gerdes.

Forbes thought that the matter needed investigation, and moved to refer it back to the committee.

Andrus declared that it had been investigated thoroughly, and that the council was in possession of the full facts in the case. The bill was finally ordered paid, by a vote of five to four, Gerdes, Sears, Smith and Forbes voting "no," and Adams casting the deciding vote.

[illegible] THE DREDGER.

Another claim was presented to the council last evening which created much discussion and finally was not allowed. This was the bill of the Willamette Iron Works for repairs to the city dredger, $1902.62, and when it had been read by the clerk Councilman Gerdes arose once more very deliberately and said:

"Mr. President, I rise for an explanation. I wish to know whether the new committee on dredger had authorized this work done."

Councilman Fliedner said it had not.

Gerdes then stated, as a member of the old committee, that no one had ever been authorized to contract for any such work as that for which the Willamette Iron Works now presented a bill of nearly two thousand dollars. He then demanded to know where the superintendent of the dredger obtained the authority to expend all this money. He asserted that the committee itself had no right to expend over $100 without a special ordinance, and declared that the council had no right to pay this bill.

Councilman Andrus said that he had looked up the matter and found that the committee had a right to make the expenditure, but believes with Councilman Gerdes that the superintendent had exceeded his authority in getting this work done. Nevertheless the work had been contracted for and undoubtedly the bill could be collected by law.

Councilman Forbes wanted an investigation, and moved that the bill be referred to the special committee on dredger for this purpose. The motion prevailed.

NEW ORDINANCES.

Following are the titles of ordinances introduced last evening:

[illegible] read twice.

Providing for the [illegible] and manner of [illegible] a sewer in [illegible] street; passed.

Authorizing the [illegible] in the matter of the proposed extension of the Clay street sewer, read twice.

Providing for the time and manner of improving N street; passed.

Declaring the probable cost of improving King street from the south line of B street to the south line of West Main street and making appropriation therefor; read twice.

Authorizing and directing a nine years' contract with the Portland Hydraulic Elevator Company, as recommended by the board of fire commissioners in their communication to the council, the city to pay for such service $250 a month; read twice and referred to the committee on fire and water.

Councilman Gerdes introduced an ordinance providing for the appointment of a competent person as superintendent of the city dredger and defining his duties in relation to the same. Gerdes stated that the object of the ordinance was to put a check upon undue expenditure of the city's money. The ordinance was read twice.

Councilman Scoggins introduced an ordinance amending section 1 of the police ordinance, the [illegible] of which is to increase the force by the addition of [illegible] policemen. The ordinance was read twice.

Declaring the [illegible] cost of [illegible] and making an appropriation therefor; read twice.

Making an appropriation out of the [illegible] for the [illegible] street, [illegible]

[illegible]

Councilman [illegible] to take the [illegible] power [illegible] the public property [illegible] in the council [illegible] He did not desire to see the present incumbent [illegible] removed from office [illegible] in the committee that appointed [illegible] individual members.

Councilman Fliedner sarcastically thanked Gerdes for his explanation and remarked that he had intended to vote in favor of the passage of the ordinance, but he should now vote "No," most emphatically.

Sears, who had been inclined to vote "No," changed his mind and voted "Yes." The president voted yes, and the ordinance failed to pass by the [illegible] vote.

CHARGES AGAINST CAPTAIN HAIR.

The following resolution was introduced by Councilman Gerdes:

WHEREAS, J. T. Hair, captain of police of the city of Portland, did while [illegible] as such and while under regular pay and employment of said city as such captain [illegible] on or about the 23d day of July, 1884, receive and accept as a gift and present from Mary [illegible], a notorious, lewd and degraded woman, then and there a prisoner at said jail, a gold cameo ring of the value of $15 or $20, and has since said time continually and publicly worn same, and

WHEREAS, Such act of receiving and accepting said present and gift from said prisoner was unbecoming an officer and gentleman, subversive of good discipline and demoralizing in effect, and disgraceful to the city and its police force; and

WHEREAS, Said act was without authority or permission, and in violation and contravention of rules 22 and [illegible] of the rules and regulations governing the police department of the city of Portland, therefore be it

Resolved, That said J. T. Hair be and is hereby removed from the office of captain of police of the city of Portland, and dismissed from the service thereof.

Gerdes moved the adoption of the resolution and stated for the information of the council that Miss [illegible] had been arrested eleven times, and was now in the city jail, and that he was personally responsible for and ready to prove all statements made in the preamble of this resolution. He then proceeded to read the rules governing the police force and repeat his assertion that Captain Hair had disgraced the force by accepting the ring referred to. "It is true," said Gerdes, "that I recommended this man for his present position, and voted for him, but I have never been so sorry for anything I have done since I have been in this council chamber."

Sears said every man was entitled to a hearing when charges were made against him, and moved that this resolution be referred to the committee on health and police, with instructions to investigate the charges thoroughly. Gerdes agreed to this, and the matter was so referred unanimously.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

WHEREAS, The resolution of this body passed June [illegible], 1884, providing that no street improvement be undertaken by the council except upon the petition of the owners of one half the property abutting upon said street to be improved, has tended to prevent improvements by the city [illegible] where necessary, thereby endangering the safety and lives of persons traveling over the streets; therefore be it

Resolved, That said resolution be and the same is hereby repealed.

Gerdes strenuously opposed this, saying that street improvements should not be forced upon poor people in these hard times. Andrus also spoke in opposition to the resolution, and called for the ayes and nays upon the motion for adoption. They were given as follows:

Yeas—Fliedner, Forbes, Holland, Scoggins and Adams. Nays—Andrus, Gerdes, Sears and Smith.

"You five hang together pretty well," said Gerdes, "but you'll fall out some of these days. It won't last very long."

OTHER RESOLUTIONS

Were adopted as follows:

[illegible] Hair [illegible] his salary since [illegible] appointment as captain of the city [illegible]

Gerdes wished to have the resolution [illegible]

It was explained that the resolution was to pay him for all the time he had served, which a former resolution did not do. It was then adopted by a full vote.

Authorizing the auditor and clerk to issue warrants for the collection of delinquent street assessments. Adopted.

Appointing P. Schmidt[illegible] and E. L. Dorland assessors of the [illegible] cost of the construction of the G street sewer from the river to Eleventh street. Adopted.

Granting the P. M. & P. Co. and P. O. [illegible] & Co. an extension of thirty days in which to complete their contract for the improvement of Jefferson street. Adopted.

Resolved, That the resolution of this body passed August 6, 1884, providing "that all [illegible] persons to office in the city government shall report the same to the council for approval," be and the same is hereby repealed.

The yeas and nays being called for, the resolution was adopted by the same five to four vote. Everybody in the council chamber laughed heartily at Gerdes' [illegible] of disgust when the same division was again announced.

Authorizing the committee on streets and public property to expend $50 for the erection of a gas lamp on the southwest corner of Ella and F streets, and an oil lamp at the northeast corner of North Fifteenth and H streets, and a gas lamp at the corner of I and North Seventeenth streets; adopted.

Resolved, That the mayor and the auditor and clerk be, and they are hereby, authorized and directed to [illegible] to owners wishing to redeem property sold to the city for street improvements all the right title and interest of the city therein; adopted.

Instructing the superintendent of streets to notify Messrs. [illegible] and Mackay to construct a temporary sidewalk in front of their property for the public convenience, without further delay; adopted.

Directing the superintendent of streets to notify persons to remove all buildings or obstructions within the lines of the lateral extension of Seventh street, forthwith; adopted.

There being no further business the council then adjourned.

Whistler-Delmas Wrestling Match.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The wrestling match between Clarence Whistler and Pietro Delmas, last evening at Woodward's garden, attracted an audience of about 2500. The match was Greco-Roman for stakes—$500—and a purse of $100. The first fall, which lasted ten minutes and ten seconds, was won by Whistler. The second round consisted of twenty minutes work, and three minutes rest, and at the end of seven minutes and thirty-seven seconds, Whistler again floored his opponent, winning the match. In the second round a foul was claimed by Delmas, but the grounds were so slight that it was not allowed by the referee.

The Butler Party.

[Special.]—Ex-Mayor Kalloch has opened the campaign for Butler, and will speak in every county in the state. The Butler party here is almost identical with the old so-called workingmen's party, that is mostly made up of malcontents and hoodlums, whose pretense of being workingmen is a sham and fraud. The only notable accession to the party is Ned Marshall, attorney general of the state, and formerly a democrat. He will assist Kalloch, and so far as known will be about the only respectable feature in the Butler campaign.

SALT LAKE, Sept. 3.—Joseph W. Hoenna was to have been hanged at White Sulphur Springs, Montana, to-day. The gallows was built, coffin prepared and the grave was about to be dug, pending an appeal to the territorial supreme court, but judgment of the lower court was revoked. When his counsel told him the result he cried out, "Thank God! God is indeed gracious," and he indulged in a paroxysm of joy.

SECOND LECTURE.

Herr Friedrich Schuenemann Pott Speaks Again to a Small but Select Audience of our Educated German Citizens

The singing section of the Turners entertained the audience before the lecture last evening with a song, "Friends, Brethren, be Welcome," a song very suitable for the occasion.

Herr Schuenemann Pott who speaks in admirable elevated German, in a way which is not pointed towards keeping up excitement, but speaking only of facts which are known to men conversed with history and proving his statements by citations from letters and works of great men, had chosen for this evening the subject: "Historical records of the free religious movements among the Anglo Americans." In his introduction he rejected in a severe and sarcastic language the claims of the Germans, and especially of the German-Americans, that all the modern views of the world were originated only by Germans. He enumerated a part of those men, and not a small number of Englishmen, Frenchmen, Italians and Spaniards, who were active for enlightenment before, during and after the reformation, besides their German friends Luther, Lessing, Schiller and Goethe. He emphasized that France had her encyclopedists, England her atheists, and both hemispheres their Thomas Paine to enlighten the world.

He presupposed that the present assemblage was versed with the latest events of the free religious movement in this country, therefore he chose to speak more of its origin, presuming that he could tell about the beginning of the movement many a new thing. Reform never had its root in a whole nation, but always only in small insignificant causes, and through single persons. Reform in religious views arose always in contrast with dogmatism, the doctrine of faith; forms of rites; the divine service, and constitutional laws. He referred to the fact that all reform movements commenced with the last, that is, with the most unassuming. Then arose doubts about the rites of the church in harmony with the small effort made and not until then dissatisfaction with the divine services were created, men commenced to shake at the basis and the principles of the divine doctrine.

Just in the same way as dissatisfactions and doubts originated in other parts of the world, just in the same manner they arose in this country. The Puritans, no longer contented with the High Church of England, came to this country to comply with their conscience and to free themselves of in fact insignificant customs; they never thought of reforming the basis of the Christian faith; they only wanted some of the rites altered and changed in accordance with their common sense. And they adhered so much to their faith that out of the prosecuted grew prosecutors by fanaticism. Not the Puritans, but the Quakers earn the name, the glory of being the pioneers of spiritual development. They, before all other sections, questioned the right of the clergy.

Mysticism always used to be a living protest against orthodoxy; the one sticks to the dead letter, the other to the heart. Under what difficulties the reformists had to work is evidenced by the fact that in the year 1792 the English parliament rejected the bill for the abolition of capital punishment on account of being an adherent of Unitarianism, and not before 1813 was this law abolished by an act of the English parliament.

The great men of the revolution, the fathers of the United States republic, were the men of enlightenment of their time. Thomas Paine did not a less work with the pen than George Washington with the sword. Benjamin Franklin's views of religion are best stated by the fact that he seldom used the words God or Lord, but in place of it Deity, Providence, etc. He was accused by the fanatics for interference with the divine institutions of the world by his invention of the lightning conductor.

George Washington, whom churchmen delight to call their own, was declining without any doubt from the old Christian faith. Jefferson relates the fact, and Morris says that Washington was an infidel as he himself was. When Washington was reproached by the clergyman to whose sermons he frequently listened, that he always left the church when the Lord's supper was given, he never again visited the church when he was informed that the communion would be given after the sermon.

The infidelity of Thomas Jefferson is known, but his works are not so much known as is to be wished. He wrote, "Let your reason be your only oracle." He wished that we should return to the principles which were predominant at the building up of the republic.

In finishing the speaker mentioned that the new organizations of the Quakers, who cleared the sect from the old views, were especially working towards enlightenment. In 1851 the society of progressive friends was incorporated. The family of Bayard Taylor was among its most ardent members. At the same time a community of free thinkers was formed in the state of Vermont called "The [illegible] Association of the United States," of which among many others [illegible] Ralph Waldo Emerson, [illegible] Adler and [illegible] In this country [illegible] views [illegible] growing rapid[illegible] The liberal leagues [illegible] [illegible] the public [illegible]

H. E. Johnson reports to the Walla Walla [illegible] that the oat and barley crops of Indian valley are looking magnificently. He says the Blue mountains have not been devasted by heavy fires, and the grass is green and succulent.

A few days ago, while making a road for hauling logs up the Hoquiam, one of the men found quite a large cropping of coal in grading through a hill, about four feet under the ground. There is every evidence of coal in this section. All of the croppings found are near to deep water, and the distance being so much shorter to market than either the sound or British Columbia coal mines, if it proved to be a good article, would make it very profitable to any who might engage in its development.

Monday evening several fire companies met at Walla Walla and adopted resolutions to the effect that they would withdraw from the department should the council enforce the moving of any of the companies. Tiger and Washington Engine Companies met in joint convention and nominated the following ticket: For chief engineer, Robert McCalley; for first assistant chief, Henry Relling; second assistant chief, Ed O'Rourke. Mr. McCalley will decline the honor on account of the position he now occupies before the people.

News reached Seattle some days ago of the death of Martin Schmieg, who died of consumption in Germany on August 7. Mr. Schmieg will be well remembered by all old settlers on Puget sound. He came to Puget sound in 1859 and located at Steilacoom, where he started a brewery and distillery. In 1863 he removed to Seattle and established the North Pacific brewery, which was afterward owned by Mr. Mehlhorn, and which was burned in 18[illegible]. In 1878 he went back to Germany, having accumulated a handsome fortune here. He met with an accident two or three years ago, sustaining internal injuries and the breaking of several ribs.

Eastern Oregon.

East Oregonian: The Blalock farm, in Wasco county, has 1000 acres in corn, which will compare favorably with any grown in the older states. It is only within the last two or three years that any attempts have been made to cultivate corn, the belief being general that the climate is not conducive to its growth. The experiments so far have been very successful, and in the future Wasco county will be largely given to the growth of this cereal.

Marvin Turner and Albert Despain, two small boys, went out hunting Saturday near Pendleton, Oregon. While sitting on a log at the mouth of the McKay creek fooling with their guns, Turner's weapon was discharged, striking young Despain in the right hand, seriously injuring it. He came to town, and Dr. Vincent being called, found it necessary to amputate the fore-finger of the right hand.

John Harvey's house in Despain's gulch, Umatilla county, was destroyed by fire on Friday night, with all its contents. The house was set on fire by a lamp exploding, which communicated with a case of coal oil near by. Mr. Harvey was quite a ways from the building at the time, hence the fire became master of the situation ere he arrived upon the scene. He lost his money, accounts and notes, besides all his clothes and household articles, amounting in all to about $2000, which was uninsured.

Rev. W. E. Pmwine met with a serious accident last week while on a fishing excursion in the mountains near Weston. The horse he was riding began to rear and plunge and his saddle turned, throwing him off. As he fell the horse wheeled, and kicked him on the left side of the face, bruising his head and face in a fearful manner, and cutting the ear almost entirely off. Fortunately no bones were broken. In this condition he remounted the horse and rode into town, a distance of twelve or fourteen miles.

A great deal of fruit is being dried throughout the Umpqua valley.

Jesse Parker not long since killed three of the grizzly bears that have been causing much trouble to stockmen in the Sprague river country.

There are great fires raging in the mountains west of Roseburg, which are doing considerable damage to timber, besides filling the atmosphere with smoke.

Worms have about destroyed the cabbage and corn crops in Langell valley this season. They have also done considerable damage to the potato crop.

Preparations are now fully under way for the pioneer reunion, to take place in Jacksonville on the 11th of next month. No pains will be spared by the committees to make this a fine event, and a splendid time may be looked for.

"LABORING CLASSES."

The Appalling Blunder Made by Cleveland in His Letter of Acceptance.

New York Sun, Aug. 24.

We have already announced the fact that Mr. Edward F. McDonald of New Jersey has refused to stand as a candidate for a Cleveland elector after he had been selected for that post by the democratic state convention. He refuses for the same reason that other democrats offer for the same act. He cannot support Grover Cleveland; and in the course of his refusal he makes an interesting criticism upon Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance. "He bids for the laborers' vote," says Mr. McDonald, "and speaks of the 'laboring classes.' There are no classes in this country, thank God, and no man of brains, much less one sympathizing with the laboring masses, could have used such a term."

One difficulty with Mr. Cleveland appears to be that he has not sufficiently studied the pages of the Sun. Had he perused this journal with due attention during the time he was sheriff of Erie county, and mayor, and governor, he would have had burned in upon his mind, in characters of sunlight, the truth enunciated so vigorously by Mr. McDonald: "There are no classes in this country, thank God." Moreover, if Mr. Cleveland had studied the Sun, as he ought to have done, he would have been instructed long ago that no sensible politician and no aspirant for high distinction in this republic will ever allow himself to admit into his mind the dangerous delusion that this is a land of classes and of caste.

In whatever aspect we view him, Grover Cleveland is not a suitable man for president of the United States.

Laboring classes, forsooth!

THE EAST SIDE.

THE MUSICIANS' GRIEVANCE.

The petition of civic musicians, complaining of the action of the army bands in competing with them for patronage and asking that the same be discontinued in accordance with the service regulations has been duly forwarded to the secretary of war by Congressman M. C. George, with his endorsement and request "to have the matter investigated and proper action taken." In a letter acknowledging the receipt of the petition Mr. George expresses the hope "that the secretary of war will take such measures as may be necessary for the petitioners' protection." In reply to a Vancouver correspondent, who argues that the action complained of is justifiable because members of civic bands engage in work other than that of their profession, it is claimed that such work becomes necessary in a great measure by the military interference in question. The question, however, turns on the right of army bands to compete with the civic under the service regulations, and it is hoped the secretary of war will settle the matter beyond the peradventure of further dispute.

SUIT FOR WAGES.

The suit of Gary Guenther vs. Lambert Kratz was tried in Justice Coleman's court yesterday afternoon before a jury. W. Lock and E. O. Dodd for plaintiff and N. N. Steeves for defendant. Defendant is proprietor of the Humboldt brewery, and plaintiff sued for $125, amount alleged due for wages as foreman. Defendant in answer set up that plaintiff was incompetent, and through his incompetence he had sustained an actual loss of $1000 through loss of custom, besides other damage to his business, and a number of saloon keepers testified to the inferiority of the beer during the plaintiff's employment. The jury awarded plaintiff $28, being the amount of one month's wages of $75 less $47, which he acknowledged receiving. The trial was interesting and animated, and considerable cross firing was done. At one time plaintiff and defendant assumed a threatening attitude toward one another, and a lively result might have ensued if they had not been checked by the court.

THE J STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Councilmen Lang and Smith, of the committee on streets, met last evening for the purpose of considering the bids for the J street improvement, but on account of the absence of Councilman Wheeler, the other committeeman, no definite action was taken. Mr. C. L. Spore, however, will in all probability, get the contract for the elevated roadway, he being the lowest bidder. Outside the individual bids of property owners, the lowest bids for the balance of the work are from Thomas Turnbull and a man named Hall. That of the latter, however, is not complete in some respects, which fact will probably militate against him.

SANITARY SCHEMES.

The street commissioner put a force of men to work yesterday to dig a ditch to drain off the stagnant water in the vicinity of L street, between First and Second—a sanitary measure recently recommended by THE OREGONIAN. The commissioner also intends to dig a tributary ditch on the opposite side of the main ditch on K street, in order to drain off the standing water west of Second street. This action of the commissioner will be duly appreciated by citizens, especially by those residing in the immediate vicinity of the improvements.

LOSS BY BURGLARY.

Mrs. Jason Kellogg, whose residence on I street between Tenth and Eleventh, was plundered by burglars during her absence on the Sound, returned yesterday and found that goods had been stolen to the amount of about $100, consisting of silverware, bed clothing, underclothing, table cloths and other necessary effects for housekeeping, which had to be replaced before resuming the same.

BURGLAR IDENTIFIED.

The burglar shot by Dr. Pilkington has been positively identified by Officer Stafford as a man who visited this city with a confederate about the latter part of July, and who were spotted by himself and Officer Jerolaman. A cigar dealer also identifies him as a man who came to his store to change a dollar about the time stated, so that many of the operations meantime may safely be attributed to him.

NOTES.

Dr. C. H. Raffety and wife have returned from a week's visit to Neahcoxie.

Mrs. F. A. Banks, of Wilhoit springs, is visiting Mrs. D. L. Leathers, of this city.

Thomas Welch, who is laid up with bilious remittent fever, is slowly improving.

Mr. John Summerville and wife have returned from a ten days' trip to the Sound and Victoria.

Chris Bitzer, who was about to leave the state while owing Dr. Royal $12, was arrested under a warrant issued by Justice Simpson and made to settle.

A neat sign—gilt letters on a black ground—now designates the office of C. N. Rankin, route agent of THE OREGONIAN and Telegram, on Fourth street, near the First National bank.

Councilman Smith introduced a resolution at the last meeting of the council to have the hydrants painted—the upper portion green and the lower portion black. It was referred to the committee on fire and water.

A bent at the north end of the Fourth street bridge that had settled nearly two feet, was yesterday put in position by the street commissioner. The settling was caused by dirt dumped under the bridge by contractor Frainey, who will have to settle the bill of costs.

R. L. Gillespie and family, Mrs. C. Austin and family and Mrs. G. Linville and family, the last of the East Portland campers on the Sandy, have returned home. Gillespie had a thrilling adventure with a chipmunk, but the chipmunk still lives to tell the story on him. This was his only adventure while absent, worth relating, except rolling down a hill into the river.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Adams and Mrs. Leslie Butler started for the east Monday evening.

Dr. H. Logan returned from the east Monday, where he has been spending a two weeks' vacation.

The Columbia river conference of the Methodist Episcopal church meets here next Friday, Bishop Fowler presiding.

Mr. C. N. Chandler, who has been for some time first assistant in the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's office at this place, started Monday for Dakota, where he contemplates going into business.

The Wasco Independent Academy opened Monday, with a large attendance. The corps of teachers is the same as last year, except that Miss Stump is in the place of Miss Chamberlin until the latter returns from the east next December, and the addition of the name of Miss U. Dilley, music teacher. Miss Dilley has just arrived from the east, where she came to fill this position.

The circuit court for Wasco county convened Monday morning, Judge Taylor presiding. Among the attorneys from out of town in attendance are Geo. H. Durham, A. S. Bennett, Hon. R. Williams, H. Y. Thompson, Fred Strong and C. A. Dolph of the Portland bar. The calendar is unusually small, and the term will be a short one. Only one important criminal case—that of the state vs. Charles Hawkins, charged with murder—will come up for trial.

Mr. C. W. Taylor, train dispatcher for the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company at this place, and Miss Grace Wilson were married Monday morning at 6 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. M. E. Wilson, the bride's mother. Only members of the family were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor took the Pacific express the same morning for a trip on the Sound. Both bride and groom have a host of friends, here and elsewhere, who extend to them their best wishes.

YAQUINA BAY ITEMS.

NEWPORT, Sept. 1, 1884.

The steamer Yaquina left for San Francisco Friday morning at 6 o'clock.

Dr. M. M. Davis moves his drug store from this place to Yaquina City this week.

The prospects are good for considerable building and improvement here this fall, if the weather permits.

The steamer Gipsy is expected in this evening, with freight and passengers. Several parties expect to return to Portland by her.

The contract for building a wharf across from the railroad wharf at West Yaquina has been let; also contracts for several new houses.

The Coos Bay came in over the bar Saturday morning and steamed west to the railroad docks at Yaquina City, where she discharged freight for the O. P. R. R. Co., and crossed out, en route for Portland, the same evening at 8 o'clock.

Many of the pleasure seekers are leaving for the valley, some to enter schoolrooms as teachers, and others as pupils, while all will commence with renewed zeal the business and bustle of life, being loud in their praise of Yaquina bay as a summer resort.

A Far-sighted Official.

Philadelphia Call.

Bank President—"My dear, I suppose you know that I am not only the president of the bank, but the owner of most of the stock?"

Daughter—"Yes, pa."

"And if I am not mistaken you are becoming rather fond of Mr. [illegible], my cashier?"

"Y[illegible] pa. I [illegible]"

"I have [illegible] have you tried to hard to conceal this from me?"

"O, pa, please forgive [illegible], but I knew you would object to marriage with a poor man, and dreading your terrible anger, I have tried my best to conquer my feelings. Indeed, indeed I have."

"[illegible] Great St. Bullion! I want you to marry him as soon as possible."

"O, you dear, darling old pa! But what has wrought this strange metamorphosis?"

"O, nothing; only I thought it would be just as well to keep all the bank funds in the family."

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 3.

A steady light rain fell all afternoon and is probably a reminder of the arrival of fall. Harvesters who have work yet to do will have to take time between showers. Fortunately there is little work, requiring dry weather, to be done on the farms.

During the month of August 354,7[illegible] lbs wool, 40,250 lbs hides, 480 lbs mohair, 1588 lbs furs and skins, 945 sks hops, 2 bxs 1 keg dye stuff, 16 [illegible] smoked fish, 1 sk eulachons, 3 rls leather went eastward by rail.

Overland receipts include 150 cs lard, [illegible] bacon, 300 cs coal oil, 42 bxs nails, 225 pkgs tobacco, 172 hf [illegible] 140 qr [illegible] bbls beer.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 4400 ctls wheat, 204 bbls flour, 467 ctls oats, 66 ctls bran, 92 ctls middlings, 1[illegible] lbs wool, [illegible] hides, [illegible] pelts, 34 bxs fruit, 1 bx butter. Also 4110 ctls wheat, 1,100 lbs hides from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The British iron bark Birdeen, 758 tons, is up at Liverpool for this port, via Victoria. The market is altogether without new interest.

WHEAT—Foreign markets are again dull under lessened inquiry. American markets are without change. In a local way next to nothing is being done. Old wheat sold to millers at a material advance over what could be had for new. Close quotations are impossible and operators continue their indifference. Receipts continue small.

FLOUR—Standards quoted at $4 50. The request is good, especially for old wheat flour.

OATS—Two cars in to-day were sold at 35c. Market firm at 35c for best feed.

FRUIT—Returns from St. Paul are not calculated to increase shipments. One lot sold for $3 75 there, which returns no profit after paying charges. Some is now being sent to points this side. The market continues crowded with leading kinds and prices show no change.

PROVISIONS—Little doing outside of imported and prices are firm as last quoted.

CHICKENS—Market quote even at $5 for old.

EGGS—For fresh 27½c is had without difficulty.

Censuring Arthur.

New York Sun.

The simple truth is that both the great parties are now in a state of disorganization and dissolution. The republicans are split in two by the nomination of Blaine; and for this nomination, let me say by the way, General Chester A. Arthur is principally responsible. When he appeared upon the stage as an aspirant for the nomination of his party, he settled the question and made it impossible for anybody but Blaine to be selected. Had the president eschewed for himself the unattainable honor of the nomination, and had he brought forward some man of capacity and character, like General Gresham, for instance, not identified with any of the old republican faction fights, Arthur might have nominated that man; and a very strong candidate he would have been. But when Arthur himself competed for the nomination, he made it inevitable that Blaine and nobody else should obtain it; and Blaine's candidacy meant from the start a split in the party and total uncertainty, not only as to the result in 1884, but as to the existence of the party afterward.

Society Journalism in Virginia.

Wheeling Register.

Last evening a society reporter dropped into the neat and handsomely furnished barroom of Thomas F. Howley, at the west corner of Chaplin and Sixteenth streets, opposite the Capitol. The smiling countenance of William Foster beamed from behind the counter and greeted the news fiend with a resigned countenance and handed out the usual ration of liquid dew. While drinking the health appetizer the reporter glanced casually around at the fixtures in the room, and was surprised at the elegant appearance displayed by the finishing of the fixtures in black walnut. The walls were also hung with a tasty pattern of paper and ornamented with several handsome engravings. The bar is stocked with the choicest liquors and brandies, while both Reymann's and Schmulbach's beer is kept constantly on tap. Drop around and see the boys, and [illegible] will be treated [illegible]

An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,

Whistler-Delmas Wrestling Match.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The wrestling match between Clarence Whistler and Pietro Delmas, last evening at Woodward's gardens, attracted an audience of about 2500. The match was Greco-Roman for stakes—$500—and a purse of $400. The first fall, which lasted ten minutes and ten seconds, was won by Whistler. The second round consisted of twenty minutes work, and three minutes rest, and at the end of seven minutes and thirty-seven seconds, Whistler again floored his opponent, winning the match. In the second round a foul was claimed by Delmas, but the grounds were so slight that it was not allowed by the referee.

The Butler Party.

[Special.]—Ex Mayor Kalloch has opened the campaign for Butler, and will speak in every county in the state. The Butler party here is almost identical with the old so-called workingmen's party, that is mostly made up of malcontents and hoodlums, whose pretense of being workingmen is a sham and fraud. The only notable accession to the party is Ned Marshall, attorney general of the state, and formerly a democrat. He will assist Kalloch, and so far as known will be about the only respectable feature in the Butler campaign.

SECOND LECTURE.

Herr Friedrich Schuenemann Pott Speaks Again to a Small but Select Audience of our Educated German Citizens.

The singing section of the Turners entertained the audience before the lecture last evening with a song, "Friends, Brethren, Be Welcome," a song very suitable for the occasion.

Herr Schuenemann Pott, who speaks in admirable elevated German, in a way which is not pointed towards keeping up excitement, but speaking only of facts which are known to men conversed with history and proving his statements by citations from letters and works of great men, had chosen for this evening the subject "Historical records of the free religious movements and the Anglo American race." In his introduction he rejected in a severe and sarcastic language the claims of the Germans, and especially of the German-Americans, that all the modern views of the world were originated only by Germans. He enumerated a part of these men, and not a small number of Englishmen, Frenchmen, Italians and Spaniards, who were active for enlightenment before, during and after the reformation, besides their German friends Luther, Lessing, Schiller and Goethe. He emphasized that France had her encyclopedists, England her atheists, and both hemispheres their Thomas Paine to enlighten the world.

He presupposed that the present assemblage was versed with the latest events of the free religious movement in this country; therefore he chose to speak more of its origin, presuming that he could tell about the beginning of the movement many a new thing. Reform never had its root in a whole nation, but always only in small insignificant causes, and through single persons. Reform in religious views arose always in contrast with dogmatism, the doctrine of faith; forms of rites; the divine service, and constitutional laws. He referred to the fact that all reform movements commenced with the last, that is, with the most unassuming. Then arose doubts about the rites of the church in harmony with the small effect made, and not until the dissatisfaction with the divine services were created, men commenced to shake at the basis and the principles of the divine doctrine.

Just in the same way as dissatisfactions and doubts originated in other parts of the world, just in the same manner they arose in this country. The Puritans, no longer contented with the High Church of England, came to this country to comply with their conscience and to free themselves of in fact insignificant customs; they never thought of reforming the basis of the Christian faith, they only wanted some of the rites altered and changed in accordance with their common sense. And they adhered so much to their faith that out of the prosecuted grew prosecutors by fanaticism. Not the Puritans, but the Quakers earn the name, the glory of being the pioneers of spiritual development. They, before all other sections, questioned the right of the clergy.

Mysticism always used to be a living protest against orthodoxy; the one sticks to the dead letter, the other to the heart. Under what difficulties the reformists had to work is evidenced by the fact that in the year 1792 the English parliament rejected the bill for the abolition of capital punishment on account of being an adherent of Unitarianism, and not before 1813 was this law abolished by an act of the English parliament.

The great men of the revolution, the fathers of the United States republic, were the men of enlightenment of their time. Thomas Paine did not a less work with the pen than George Washington with the sword. Benjamin Franklin's views of religion are best stated by the fact that he seldom used the words God or Lord, but in place of it Deity, Providence, etc. He was accused by the fanatics for interference with the divine institutions of the world by his invention of the lightning conductor.

George Washington, whom churchmen delight to call their own, was declining without any doubt from the old Christian faith. Jefferson relates the fact, and Morris says that Washington was an infidel as he himself was. When Washington was reproached by the clergyman to whose sermons he frequently listened, that he always left the church when the Lord's supper was given, he never again visited the church when he was informed that the communion would be given after the sermon.

The infidelity of Thomas Jefferson is known, but his works are not so much known as is to be wished. He wrote, "Let your reason be your only oracle." He wished that we should return to the principles which were predominant at the building up of the republic.

A few days ago, while making a road for hauling logs up the Hoquiam, one of the men found quite a large cropping of coal in grading through a hill, about four feet under the ground. There is every evidence of coal in this section. All of the croppings found are near to deep water, and the distance being so much shorter to market than either the sound or British Columbia coal mines, if it proved to be a good article, would make it very profitable to any who might engage in its development.

Monday evening several fire companies met at Walla Walla and adopted resolutions to the effect that they would withdraw from the department should the council enforce the moving of any of the companies. Tiger and Washington Engine Companies met in joint convention and nominated the following ticket: For chief engineer, Robert McCalley; for first assistant chief, Henry Helling; second assistant chief, Ed O'Rourke. Mr. McCalley will decline the honor on account of the position he now occupies before the people.

News reached Seattle some days ago of the death of Martin Schmieg, who died of consumption in Germany on August 7. Mr. Schmieg will be well remembered by all old settlers on Puget sound. He came to Puget sound in 1859 and located at Steilacoom, where he started a brewery and distillery. In 1865 he removed to Seattle and established the North Pacific brewery, which was afterward owned by Mr. Mehlhorn, and which was burned in 1882. In 1878 he went back to Germany, having accumulated a handsome fortune here. He met with an accident two or three years ago, sustaining internal injuries and the breaking of several ribs.

Eastern Oregon.

East Oregonian: The Bialock farm, in Wasco county, has 1000 acres in corn, which will compare favorably with any grown in the older states. It is only within the last two or three years that any attempts have been made to cultivate corn, the belief being general that the climate is not conducive to its growth. The experiments so far have been very successful, and in the future Wasco county will be largely given to the growth of this cereal.

Marvin Turner and Albert Despain, two small boys, went out hunting Saturday near Pendleton, Oregon. While sitting on a log at the mouth of the McKay creek fooling with their guns, Turner's weapon was discharged, striking young Despain in the right hand, seriously injuring it. He came to town, and Dr. Vincent being called, found it necessary to amputate the fore-finger of the right hand.

John Harvey's house in Despain's gulch, Umatilla county, was destroyed by fire on Friday night, with all its contents. The house was set on fire by a lamp exploding, which communicated with a cask of coal oil near by. Mr. Harvey was quite a ways from the building at the time, hence the fire became master of the situation ere he arrived upon the scene. He lost his money, accounts and notes, besides all his clothes and household articles, amounting in all to about $3000, which was uninsured.

Rev. W. E. Potwine met with a serious accident last week while on a fishing excursion in the mountains near Weston. The horse he was riding began to rear and plunge and his saddle turned, throwing him off. As he fell the horse wheeled and kicked him on the left side of the face, bruising his head and face in a fearful manner, and cutting the ear almost entirely off. Fortunately no bones were broken. In this condition he remounted the horse and rode into town, a distance of twelve or fourteen miles.

Southern Oregon.

A great deal of fruit is being dried throughout the Umpqua valley.

Jesse Parker not long since killed three of the grizzly bears that have been causing much trouble to stockmen in the Sprague river country.

There are great fires raging in the mountains west of Roseburg, which are doing considerable damage to timber, besides filling the atmosphere with smoke.

Worms have about destroyed the cabbage and corn crops in Langell valley this season. They have also done considerable damage to the potato crop.

Preparations are now fully under way for the pioneer reunion, to take place in Jacksonville on the 11th of next month. No pains will be spared by the committees to make this a fine event, and a splendid time may be looked for.

"LABORING CLASSES."

The Appalling Blunder Made by Cleveland in His Letter of Acceptance.

New York Sun, Aug. 29.

We have already announced the fact that Mr. Edward F. McDonald of New Jersey has refused to stand as a candidate for a Cleveland elector after he had been selected for that post by the democratic state convention. He refuses for the same reason that other democrats offer for the same act. He cannot support Grover Cleveland, and in the course of his refusal he makes an interesting criticism upon Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance. "He bids for the labor vote," says Mr. McDonald, "and speaks of the 'laboring classes.' There are no classes in this country, thank God, and no man of brains [illegible] one sympathizing with the laboring masses, could have used such a term."

One [illegible] only with Mr. Cleveland [illegible] "There are no classes in this country, thank God." Moreover, if Mr. Cleveland had studied the Sun, as he ought to have done, he would have been instructed long ago that no sensible politician and no aspirant for high distinction in this republic will ever allow himself to admit into his mind the dangerous delusion that this is a land of classes and of caste.

In whatever aspect we view him, Grover Cleveland is not a suitable man for president of the United States.

Laboring classes, forsooth!

THE EAST SIDE.

THE MUSICIANS' GRIEVANCE.

The petition of civic musicians, complaining of the action of the army bands in competing with them for patronage, and asking that the same be discontinued in accordance with the service regulations, has been duly forwarded to the secretary of war by Congressman M. C. George, with his endorsement and request "to have the matter investigated and proper action taken." In a letter acknowledging the receipt of the petition Mr. George expresses the hope "that the secretary of war will take such measures as may be necessary for the petitioners' protection." In reply to a Vancouver correspondent, who argues that the action complained of is unjustifiable because members of civic bands engage in work other than that of their profession, it is claimed that such work becomes necessary in a great measure by the military interference in question. The question, however, turns on the right of army bands to compete with the civic under the army regulations, and it is hoped the secretary of war will settle the matter beyond the peradventure of further dispute.

SUIT FOR WAGES.

The suit of [illegible] vs. Gambert Kratz was tried in Justice Coleman's court yesterday afternoon before a jury, W. [illegible] and [illegible] for plaintiff and X. N. Steeves for defendant. Defendant is proprietor of the [illegible] Brewery, and plaintiff sued for $125, amount alleged due for wages as foreman. Defendant in answer set up that plaintiff was incompetent, and through his incompetence he had sustained an actual loss of $100 through loss of custom, besides other damage to his business, and a number of saloon keepers testified to the inferiority of the beer during the plaintiff's employment. The jury awarded plaintiff $28, being the amount of one month's wages of $75 less $47, which he acknowledged receiving. The trial was interesting and animated, and considerable cross firing was done. At one time plaintiff and defendant assumed a threatening attitude toward one another and a lively result might have ensued if they had not been checked by the court.

THE I STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Councilmen Lang and Smith, of the committee on streets, met last evening for the purpose of considering the bids for the I street improvement, but on account of the absence of Councilman Wheeler, the other committeeman, no definite action was taken. Mr. C. L. Spore, however, will in all probability, get the contract for the elevated roadway, he being the lowest bidder. Outside the individual bids of property owners, the lowest bids for the balance of the work are from Thomas Turnbull and a man named Hall. That of the latter, however, is not complete in some respects, which fact will probably militate against him.

SANITARY SCHEME.

The street commissioner put a force of men to work yesterday to dig a ditch to drain off the stagnant water in the vicinity of I street, between First and Second—a sanitary measure recently recommended by THE OREGONIAN. The commissioner also intends to dig a tributary ditch on the opposite side of the main ditch on N street, in order to drain off the standing water west of Second street. This action of the commissioner will be duly appreciated by citizens, especially by those residing in the immediate vicinity of the improvements.

LOSS BY BURGLARY.

Mrs. Jason Kellogg, whose residence on I street between Tenth and Eleventh, was plundered by burglars during her absence on the Sound, returned yesterday and found that goods had been stolen to the amount of about $200, consisting of silverware, bed clothing, underclothing, table cloths and other necessary effects for housekeeping, which had to be replaced before resuming the same.

BURGLAR IDENTIFIED.

The burglar shot by Dr. P[illegible]ington has been positively identified by Officer Stafford as a man who visited this city with a confederate about the latter part of July, and who were spotted by himself and Officer Jerdemann. A cigar dealer also identifies him as a man who came to his store to change a dollar about the time stated, so that many of the operations [illegible] may safely be attributed to him.

NOTES.

Dr. C. H. Raffety and wife have returned from a week's visit to [illegible].

Mrs. F. A. Banks, of Wilhoit springs, is visiting Mrs. L. L. Leathers, of this city.

Thomas Welch, who is laid up with bilious remittent fever, is slowly improving.

Mr. John Summerville and wife have returned from a ten days' trip to the Sound and Victoria.

Chris [illegible], who was about to leave the state while owing Dr. Royal $12, was arrested under a warrant issued by Justice Simpson and made to settle.

A neat sign—gilt letters on a black ground—now designates the office of D. N. [illegible], route agent of THE OREGONIAN and Telegram, on Fourth street, next the First National bank.

Councilman Smith introduced a resolution at the last meeting of the council to have the hydrants painted—the upper part on green and the lower portion black. It was referred to the committee on fire and water.

A bent at the north end of the Fourth street bridge that had settled nearly two feet, was yesterday put in position by the street commissioner. The settling was caused by dirt dumped under the bridge by contractor [illegible], who will have to settle the bill of costs.

R. L. Gillespie and family, Mrs. C. Austin and family and Mrs. G. Linville and family, the last of the East Portland campers on the Sandy, have returned home. Gillespie had a thrilling adventure with a chipmunk but the chipmunk still lives to [tell the] story on him. This was his only adventure [illegible] absent, worth relating, except rolling [illegible] into the river.

DALLES ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Adams and Mrs. Leslie Butler started for the east Monday evening.

Dr. H. Logan returned from the coast Monday, where he has been spending a two weeks' vacation.

The Columbia river conference of the Methodist Episcopal church meets here next Friday, Bishop Fowler presiding.

Mr. G. N. Chandler, who has been for some time first assistant in the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's office at this place, started Monday for Dakota, where he contemplates going into business.

The Wasco Independent Academy opened Monday, with a large attendance. The corps of teachers is the same as last year, except that Miss Susan fills the place of Miss Chamberlin until the latter returns from the east next December, and the additional name of Miss H. Dailey, music teacher. Miss Dailey has just arrived from the east where she came to fill this position.

The circuit court for Wasco county convened Monday morning, Judge Taylor presiding. Among the attorneys from out of town in attendance are Geo. H. Durham, A. S. Bennett, Hon. R. Williams, H. Y. Thompson, Fred Strong and C. A. Dolph of the Portland bar. The calendar is unusually small, and the term will be a short one. Only one important criminal case—that of the state vs. Charles Hawkins, charged with murder—will come up for trial.

Mr. C. W. Taylor, train dispatcher for the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company at this place, and Miss Grace Wilson were married Monday morning at [illegible] o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. M. A. Wilson, the bride's mother. Only members of the family were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor took the Pacific express the same morning for a trip to the Sound. Both bride and groom have a host of friends, here and elsewhere, who extend to them their best wishes.

YAQUINA BAY ITEMS.

NEWPORT, Sept. 1, 1884.

The steamer Yaquina left for San Francisco Friday morning at 8 o'clock.

Dr. M. M. Davis moved his drug store from this place to Yaquina City this week.

The prospects are good for considerable building and improvement here this fall, if the weather permits.

The steamer Yaquina is expected in this evening, with freight and passengers. Several parties expect to return to Portland by her.

The contract for building a wharf across from the railroad wharf at [illegible] Yaquina has been let; also contracts for several new houses.

The Cook Bay came in over the bar Saturday morning and steamed east to the railroad docks at Yaquina City, where she discharged freight for the O. P. R. R. Co. and cleared out, en route for Portland, the same evening at 8 o'clock.

Many of the pleasure seekers are leaving for the valley, some to enter school, some as teachers, and others as pupils, while all will return once with [illegible] the business and bustle of life, being loud in their praise of Yaquina bay as a summer resort.

Censuring Arthur.

New York Sun.

The simple truth is that both [illegible] parties are now in a state of disorganization and dissolution. The republicans are split in two by the nomination of Blaine; and for this nomination, let me say by the way, General Chester A. Arthur is principally responsible. When he appeared upon the stage as an aspirant for the nomination of his party, he settled the question and made it impossible for anybody but Blaine to be selected. Had the president eschewed for himself the unattainable honor of the nomination, and had he brought forward some man of capacity and character, like General Gresham, for instance, not identified with any of the old republican factions, Arthur might have nominated that man; and a very strong candidate he would have been. But when Arthur himself competed for the nomination, he made it inevitable that Blaine and nobody else should obtain it; and Blaine's candidacy meant from the start a split in the party and total uncertainty, not only as to the result in 1884, but as to the existence of the party afterward.

Society Journalism in Virginia.

Wheeling Register.

Last evening a society reporter dropped into the neat and luxuriously furnished barroom of Thomas F. Howley, at the west corner of Chapline and Sixteenth streets, opposite the Capitol. The smiling countenance of William Foster beamed from behind the counter and greeted the newsfiend with a resigned countenance and handed out the usual ration of liquid dew. While drinking the hearty appetizer the reporter glanced casually around at the fixtures in the room, and was surprised at the elegant appearance displayed by the furniture, the fixtures in black walnut. An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the last forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of these dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

News reached Seattle some days ago of the death of Martin Schmieg, who died of consumption in Germany on August 7. Mr. Schmieg will be well remembered by all old settlers on Puget sound. [illegible] The Blalock farm, in Wasco county, has 1500 acres in corn, which will compare favorably with any grown in the older states. It is only within the last two or three years that any attempts have been made to cultivate corn, the belief being general that the climate is not conducive to its growth. The experiments so far have been very successful, and in the future Wasco county will be largely given to the growth of this cereal.

Rev. W. E. Potwine met with a serious accident last week while on a fishing excursion in the mountains near Weston. The horse he was riding began to rear and plunge and the saddle turned, throwing him off. As he fell the horse wheeled and kicked him on the left side of the face, bruising his head and face in a fearful manner, and cutting the ear almost entirely off. Fortunately no bones were broken. In this condition he remounted the horse and rode into town, a distance of twelve or fourteen miles.
